Missourian To Tell People Program Before Solons Return To Capital

BY MERRIMAN SMITH
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—President Truman goes on the air tonight to seek strong public support in his fight to overcome congressional indifference to his legislative program.

He will deliver a 30-minute nationwide radio address from the White House at 10 p. m. (EST). It will be broadcast by all networks.

He will list for the nation the basic provisions of his program and explain the status of the many individual proposals to which congress thus far has given little support.

The President will explain in simple words what he is trying to do and the obstacles in his way. He was not expected to criticize congress in any sharp terms for failure to enact his program. He will rely instead on public opinion to achieve his aims.

Mr. Truman was not expected to ask for anything new, but merely to restate and stress the need for White House proposals already pending before the house and senate.

His speech tonight marked a new development in the presidential technique of pressing legislation. Usually, at the first of each year, a President submits a state of the union message to the congress, then follows up with an explanatory address to the public.

The President now has reversed this procedure. Congress is in a holiday recess until Jan. 14. Mr. Truman apparently feels it is more strategic to get the people behind his program while their legislative representatives are on home grounds and can sense public reaction at first hand.

The chief executive was expected to hold out to the nation the prospects for great prosperity if the various elements of the American population work together. He believes his proposals for such things as full employment and labor dispute machinery can do much to insure that cooperation.

After nearly 10 months in office, Mr. Truman finds most of his major requests of congress unanswered.

In December, he asked for speedy enactment, preferably before Christmas, of legislation to set up fact-finding boards to deal with labor disputes. The lawmakers recessed, however, with the proposals still in the committee stage.

The President put a lot of work into his speech. He devoted nearly a week of concentrated work on the text aboard the presidential yacht Williamsburg where he was free from interrupting phone calls and White House callers.

McCarran Charges Army Abuse

Senator Promises Congress Probe Of Administration Of Martial Law

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—Sen. Pat McCarran, D., Nev., today accused the Army of shameful abuses in administration of martial law and promised a congressional investigation.

McCarran, chairman of the senate judiciary committee, said the inquiry should also cover the Army's court-martial system. He said particularly objectionable practices occurred while military law was in force in Hawaii where, he declared, innocent persons suffered punishment "worse than just being locked up."

"If Hawaii typifies military law as administered by the Army, then somebody should let the Army know that it is not the government of the United States, and that the Constitution of the United States still prevails," McCarran said in an interview.

Disclosing that he had been carrying on a private investigation, McCarran said that "if one-half of what I have heard is true, then there are some people wearing chevrons who should be wearing stripes."

McCarran said his information came from "many sources." He said he had not asked the Army for an official report "because if I did, I knew that it would be smothered up—and I'm not going to let anything be smothered up."

McCarran said he might use as a vehicle for the inquiry a resolution introduced by Sen. Wayne Morse, R., Ore. It calls for an investigation.

LORD HAW HAW PAYS WITH LIFE

British Hang Traitor Who Broadcast Propaganda For The Nazis

LONDON, Jan. 3.—William Joyce, a Brooklyn Irish lad who became the scar-faced and snarling Lord Haw Haw of the Nazi radio, was hanged for high treason on the gallows of Wandsworth prison today.

The traitor who once taunted Britain by radio trembled as he walked across the prison yard to gallows but he refused assistance. Dressed in a blue suit, he stood quietly on the trapdoor while executioner Albert Pierrepont put the hangman's noose around his neck.

At least four of his Fascist sympathizers stood in the shivering crowd of 300 outside the stone walls of the southwest London prison. Reinforced police guards and a group of British soldiers on leave were at the prison gate, ready for trouble, but there was no demonstration when the execution notice was posted at 9:08 a. m.

One of the little traitor's supporters bared his head and stood at attention as the crowd jammed against the big green gate to read the words, "The judgment of death was this day executed on William Joyce."

Three other young men stepped forward.

HUMMEL BOUND TO GRAND JURY UNDER $1,000 BOND

Harold A. Hummel, 39, mechanic of route 7 Chillicothe, has pleaded with intent to a charge of shooting with intent to kill at George Haley and has been bound over to the January grand jury by Mayor Ben H. Gordon.

Hummel's bond was set at $1,000 and he was committed to the county jail. Charges were filed by Officer Alva Shasteen following a disturbance in Haley's cafe on New Year's night.

Walter Lawhorn, Circleville, who was arrested the same evening as Hummel, was fined $25 on a charge of being intoxicated and conducting himself in a disorderly manner.

ONLY TWO KEEP RENDEZVOUS

FOUR YEARS AGO 50 RCAF flyers on their way to England made a pledge to hold a rendezvous in Detroit on the first New Year's Day following the Allied victory, but only two of the airmen, Paul Forcey, left, Woodland, Pa., and Seth T. Parker, Richmond, Va., kept the date. Forty of the original 50 flyers have been officially declared dead, while four are still listed as missing in action. The whereabouts of the additional four survivors is not known. (International)

$499,491.75 Appropriated By County Commissioners To Meet 1946 Expenses

A grand total of $499,491.75 was appropriated by the Pickaway board of county commissioners in their annual appropriation ordinance passed at the meeting Wednesday in the commissioner's office.

Money appropriated included $149,000 from two years of special agricultural levies and $12,000 from county funds to the Pickaway County Agricultural Society for the purpose of new buildings on the fair grounds and for maintenance and repair of the buildings.

Appropriations of $1,000 for crow bounties, $300 for fox bounties, $1300 for cattle tuberculosis prevention, $250 for apyary inspection, $2700 for state extension fund and $1600 for the Farmers' Institutes, were also made.

Appropriations from the general fund for general executive work totaled, $280,995.75, divided as follows: county commissioners, $13,400; county auditor, $13,920; county treasurer, $7,420; budget commission, $50; prosecuting attorney, $3,887.50; and bureau of inspection, $2,500.

Appropriations from the general fund for judicial work were divided as follows: court of appeals, $450; common pleas court, (Continued on Page Two)

CITRUS FRUIT CEILINGS BACK TO CURB PRICES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—Price Chief Chester Bowles has promised that price controls will be lifted in the future only when it is certain that "prices are not going to advance sharply."

Bowles' promise came as OPA announced that ceiling prices on fresh citrus fruits would be restored one minute after midnight tonight.

OPA said it was necessary to restore price ceilings because prices in many instances have more than doubled since controls were lifted Nov. 19.

The restoration of ceilings was approved by the agriculture department and Economic Stabilization Director John C. Colett who previously opposed the action.

When OPA recommended the action several weeks ago, Colett contended that the price increases resulted from bad weather and transportation shortages which kept fresh citrus fruits off the market.

He said at that time, however, that he would approve renewed controls if the excessive price rises were not curbed.

Despite Colett's warning, OPA said, citrus prices have continued to increase, particularly for oranges.

GEN. BEIGHTLER STEPS OUT OF POLITICS SCENE

37th Commander States He Is Not Interested In Any Office

EBRIGHT TO RUN AGAIN

Thomas Herbert Apparently Has Clear Field In Gubernatorial Race

COLUMBUS, Jan. 3.—Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler today withdrew from the Ohio political scene with the announcement that he would not become a candidate for any political office in 1946.

Beightler, who commanded the 37th Infantry (Buckeye) division for five years, had been pushed for the Republican nomination for governor.

"In fairness to many friends and interested people over the state of Ohio, who have proffered their support in the event I became a candidate, I wish to state that I do not intend to become a candidate for any political office in 1946," Beightler said.

"I feel that I must consider my family, my health and my long-neglected personal affairs. Outside of these, my principal interests now lie in doing what I can to assist in the problems surrounding the readjustment to civilian life of returning war veterans."

The state political picture was further clarified today by the announcement of State Treasurer Don H. Ebright, of Akron, that he would be a candidate for the GOP renomination and re-election for a fifth term.

The announcements were looked upon here as the efforts of party leaders to work out a "harmony platform" that would eliminate any serious opposition when the voters go to the polls in the primary election.

Ebright, who is now serving his fourth consecutive term as treasurer, said in his announcement that he was subordinating personal political ambitions to aid in insuring party success and harmony.

The former finance director of Akron had been mentioned frequently as a possible candidate for the republican gubernatorial nomination.

The announcement of Beightler and Ebright apparently insured that the GOP nomination for governor would go without serious opposition to Thomas J. Herbert, of Cleveland.

BUSY YEAR SEEN BY UN-AMERICAN GROUP OF HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—The revamped house un-American activities committee celebrated its first birthday today with its staff looking forward to an active 1946.

It was just a year ago that the committee was established permanently. Proposals to abolish it have been advanced. But committee opponents concede that the move has little chance of success.

So committee counsel Ernie Adamson and his staff are going ahead with plans for the coming year.

On Jan. 23 it will hear—probably in public session—the testimony of officials of the joint anti-Fascist refugee committee of New York City and of several "similar organizations." These groups have been asked to give an accounting of their contributions and expenditures.

The committee also intends this month to hear former ambassador to China Patrick J. Hurley tell what he knows about pro-Communists in the state department.

The committee was established as a permanent successor to the old dies committee on the first day congress met last year.

BRITISH PROBE CHARGES
LONDON, Jan. 3.—The British government announced today that it is investigating charges by Lt. Gen. Sir Frederick E. Morgan that a mass exodus of Jews from Poland is being directed by a Jewish organization.

Arrested?

BRITISH intelligence officers have arrested a man they believe to be Martin Bormann, above, Adolf Hitler's No. 1 Nazi party deputy who is being tried in absentia for war crimes at Nuernberg. He was arrested on a farm near Nuernmuenster and interrogated to establish or disprove his identity as Bormann. The man, who claims to be a farm worker by the name of Marius, appeared in the Nuernmuenster area only a few months ago. (International)

Farm Prices To Stay Up During 1946

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—The agriculture department revised earlier estimates today and predicted that farm prices would stay at present high levels for the next few months.

Its economists now believe that 1945 farm income will surpass earlier predictions by more than $300,000,000 to reach an all-time high of $21,500,000,000.

In October, the department said demand for farm products would remain high in 1946, but, even so, that income was likely to slip 10 or 15 per cent. However, consumers have been demanding farm goods at an unprecedentedly high rate and the department now believes prices will remain close to wartime peaks at least for the first few months of the new year.

Latest estimates indicate that: Prices for meat are likely "to continue near 1945 levels during the first half of 1946." Demand for dairy products promises to be "the strongest since the outbreak of war."

"Measures to support prices" on eggs probably will be necessary but chicken meat prices are due to stay "at present levels." A demand for fats to increase consumption over present "subnormal" levels will be "important price-supporting factors."

Feed grain prices "probably will average slightly higher for the entire 1945-46 season than in 1944-45" but a little less than the peak reached in 1943-44. Wheat prices are not likely to decline below present ceilings.

Prospects for potato prices are "definitely brighter" now than a month ago. Domestic cotton prices have continued to strengthen.

SFA ACTS TO INCREASE HOME COAL SUPPLIES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—The solid fuels administration moved today to increase the supply of retail coal available for home-heating purposes.

SFA said coal producers in western Kentucky, Illinois and Indiana will be required to reduce shipments to industrial consumers with more than 20-days supply of coal on hand.

The surplus coal will be diverted to retail yards.

Industrial coal shipments under the order will range from 80 per cent of January requirements for firms with less than a 21-days supply to only 50 per cent for firms with a 91-days supply.

All Union Workers In Town Quit

Stamford Paralyzed As Sympathy Walkout Is Staged By 10,000

STAMFORD, Conn., Jan. 3.—Industrial paralysis hit Stamford at noon today as 10,000 members of CIO and AFL unions walked off their jobs in sympathy with the 57-day-old strike of 3,000 employees of the Yale and Towne Manufacturing company, the world's biggest lock shop.

Workers in every factory, theatre, bar, bakery and transportation facility in this city of 65,000 were scheduled to join in the walkout and mass demonstration planned by the unions.

An additional 2,000 to 3,000 workers in four industrial plants in nearby cities also were scheduled to quit. The plants were the Conde Nast press at Greenwich, Conn., the Norwalk Lock Company at Norwalk, Conn., and Russell Birdsall & Ward Company and the Homelite Corp. both of Port Chester, N. Y.

Whether the mass walkout would extend beyond today depended on results of the Stamford demonstration.

The Stamford labor group, which is engineering the general sympathy movement, permitted operation of power plants to assure the city heat, light, and electric current. It said they would be permitted to operate in the interest of public health.

The mass demonstration was to carry out the labor group's threat of "repercussions of nationwide importance" if the Yale & Towne company continued to refuse demands of the International Association of Machinists (AFL) for a 30 per cent wage increase and a closed shop.

It was the most forceful display (Continued on Page Two)

LAUSCHE PLANS STILL UNKNOWN

Ohio Legislators In Dark Concerning Expected Special Session

COLUMBUS, Jan. 3.—Ohio legislators were still up in the air today without any knowledge of the possible plans of Gov. Frank J. Lausche to call a second special session of the Ohio general assembly.

The governor today refused to comment on the call, which many persons feel will be made quite soon. Lausche pointed out that three commissions created by the general assembly had not finished their studies.

The commissions, on strip mining control, urban redevelopment and veteran's affairs, were to make investigations on those subjects and recommend needed legislation at the next session of the assembly.

Lausche, who is empowered to call a special session and name the subjects to be considered—which he has already done once, has issued statements saying he (Continued on Page Two)

FAMILIES MAY JOIN SOLDIERS IN REICH SOON

FRANKFURT, Jan. 3.—Officers and upper-grade sergeants of the American occupation force will be joined in Germany by their wives and families starting about April 1 if the war department approves a plan now in its hands, it was learned today.

A detailed plan for the transfer of 90,000 women and children from the United States to military posts in Germany has been approved by the European theater headquarters and submitted to Washington.

Occupation force soldiers eligible to have their families with them in Germany include all officers and non-commissioned officers with the rating of staff sergeant or higher. This rule complies with standard procedure governing military posts.

Each military post will have 3,000 inhabitants, under the USFET plan. The greatest problem will be school facilities and medical care, a survey showed.

17,400 WESTERN ELECTRIC UNION MEMBERS QUIT

250,000 Telephone Workers May Join Walkout, Disrupting Service

OTHER STRIKES THREATEN

Meat Packers, Steel Makers Plan To Join Spreading Work Stoppages

By United Press
Western Electric company employees in New York and New Jersey struck today, and Stamford, Conn., workers began walking out in sympathy with Yale and Towne Manufacturing company strikers.

The first of 10,000 workers who threaten to paralyze industrial Stamford with a city-wide strike left their jobs at 11 a. m. EST. Shortly before noon 250 CIO mine, mill and smelter workers marched to the town square. A few minutes later 10 AFL bookbinders appeared.

In all U. S. labor disputes 432,000 workers were idle.

At Detroit, CIO United Auto Workers pickets barred 500 non-striking office workers from General Motors plants. The police said there was no violence—but pickets pushed aside office workers trying to cross the lines.

About 17,400 employees were involved immediately in the Western Electric walkout, called to enforce demands for a 30 percent increase.

The Western Electric Employees association, affiliated with the National Federation of Telephone Workers, has asked telephone operators across the nation to walk out in sympathy. The union predicted that the strike also would spread to 68,000 Western Electric workers throughout the country.

Even more critical walkouts loomed, however, in the nation's steel and meat packing industries. Government experts were continuing efforts to head off the Jan. 14 steel and Jan. 16 meat packing walkouts scheduled by CIO unions.

Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson warned that a meat packing strike would result in severe civilian shortages in a very short time, disrupt European relief and cut deeply into Army needs. Meats stocks, he said, already were low. (Continued on Page Two)

GERMAN TELLS OF KILLING OF JEWS, RUSSIANS

NUERNBERG, Jan. 3.—Maj. Gen. Otto Ohlendorf, one of Heinrich Himmler's henchmen, testified before the war crimes tribunal today that he personally supervised the execution of 90,000 Jews and Russian officials in 1941 and 1942 under Adolf Hitler's orders.

He said the rate of executions was speeded up to relieve the housing shortage.

The sharp-faced general, pale but coldly efficient, testified that he commanded Einsatz D, one of four execution forces sent to the eastern front to execute Hitler's personal orders for liquidation of all Jews and Soviet political commissars.

With almost professional jealousy, he admitted that his record of 90,000 executions was "materially smaller" than the totals reported by the other three groups. He claimed the other groups' scores were exaggerated.

JOHN R. PAUL INJURED WHEN AUTO OVERTURNS

John Richard Paul, 21, a passenger in a car driven by Paul Weaver, Circleville soldier, was slightly injured when the car turned over in a ditch two miles north of Circleville on route 23 at about 1 a. m. Thursday, the sheriff's department has reported.

Weaver was driving a 1939 Plymouth owned by his father, James Weaver, 119 West High street. The front, left side and top of the car were damaged, the sheriff's office stated.

Weaver said that another car came along and hooked against the car he was driving and threw his car into the ditch.

It was just a year ago that the committee was established permanently. Proposals to abolish it have been advanced. But committee opponents concede that the move has little chance of success.

So committee counsel Ernie Adamson and his staff are going ahead with plans for the coming year.

On Jan. 23 it will hear—probably in public session—the testimony of officials of the joint anti-Fascist refugee committee of New York City and of several "similar organizations." These groups have been asked to give an accounting of their contributions and expenditures.

The committee also intends this month to hear former ambassador to China Patrick J. Hurley tell what he knows about pro-Communists in the state department.

The committee was established as a permanent successor to the old dies committee on the first day congress met last year.

Arrested?

BRITISH intelligence officers have arrested a man they believe to be Martin Bormann, above, Adolf Hitler's No. 1 Nazi party deputy who is being tried in absentia for war crimes at Nuremberg. He was arrested on a farm near Neumuenster and interrogated to establish or disprove his identity as Bormann. The man, who claims to be a farm worker by the name of Marius, appeared in the Neumuenster area only a few months ago. (International)

Farm Prices To Stay Up During 1946

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—The agriculture department revised earlier estimates today and predicted that farm prices would stay at present high levels for the next few months.

Its economists now believe that 1945 farm income will surpass earlier predictions by more than $300,000,000 to reach an all-time high of $21,500,000,000.

In October, the department said demand for farm products would remain high in 1946, but, even so, that income was likely to slip 10 or 15 per cent. However, consumers have been demanding farm goods at an unprecedentedly high rate and the department now believes prices will remain close to wartime peaks at least for the first few months of the new year.

Latest estimates indicate that: Prices for meat are likely "to continue near 1945 levels during the first half of 1946." Demand for dairy products promises to be "the strongest since the outbreak of war."

"Measures to support prices" on eggs probably will be necessary, but chicken meat prices are due to stay "at present levels." A demand for fats to increase consumption over present "subnormal" levels will be "important price-supporting factors."

Feed grain prices "probably will average slightly higher for the entire 1945-46 season than in 1944-45" but a little less than the peak reached in 1943-44. Wheat prices are not likely to decline below present ceilings.

Prospects for potato prices are "definitely brighter" now than a month ago. Domestic cotton prices have continued to strengthen.

SFA ACTS TO INCREASE HOME COAL SUPPLIES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—The solid fuels administration moved today to increase the supply of retail coal available for home-heating purposes.

SFA said coal producers in western Kentucky, Illinois and Indiana will be required to reduce shipments to industrial consumers with more than 20-days supply of coal on hand.

The surplus coal will be diverted to retail yards.

Industrial coal shipments under the order will range from 80 per cent of January requirements for firms with less than a 21-days supply to only 50 per cent for firms with a 91-days supply.

All Union Workers In Town Quit

Stamford Paralyzed As Sympathy Walkout Is Staged By 10,000

STAMFORD, Conn., Jan. 8.—Industrial paralysis hit Stamford at noon today as 10,000 members of CIO and AFL unions walked off their jobs in sympathy with the 57-day-old strike of 3,000 employees of the Yale and Towne Manufacturing company, the world's biggest lock shop.

Workers in every factory, theatre, bar, bakery and transportation facility in this city of 65,000 were scheduled to join in the walkout and mass demonstration planned by the unions.

An additional 2,000 to 3,000 workers in four industrial plants in nearby cities also were scheduled to quit. The plants were the Conde Nast press at Greenwich, Conn., the Norwalk Lock Company at Norwalk, Conn., and Russell Birdsell & Ward Company and the Homelite Corp., both of Port Chester, N. Y.

Whether the mass walkout would extend beyond today depended on results of the Stamford demonstration.

The Stamford labor group, which is engineering the general sympathy movement, permitted operation of power plants to assure the city heat, light, and electric current. It said they would be permitted to operate in the interest of public health.

The mass demonstration was to carry out the labor group's threat of "repercussions of nationwide importance" if the Yale & Towne company continued to refuse demands of the International Association of Machinists (AFL) for a 30 per cent wage increase and a closed shop.

LAUSCHE PLANS STILL UNKNOWN

Ohio Legislators In Dark Concerning Expected Special Session

COLUMBUS, Jan. 8.—Ohio legislators were still up in the air today without any knowledge of the possible plans of Gov. Frank J. Lausche to call a second special session of the Ohio general assembly.

The governor today refused to comment on the call, which many persons feel will be made quite soon. Lausche pointed out that three commissions created by the general assembly had not finished their studies.

The commissions, on strip mining control, urban redevelopment and veteran's affairs, were to make investigations on those subjects and recommend needed legislation at the next session of the assembly.

Lausche, who is empowered to call a special session and name the subjects to be considered—which he has already done once, has issued statements saying he (Continued on Page Two)

FAMILIES MAY JOIN SOLDIERS IN REICH SOON

FRANKFURT, Jan. 8.—Officers and upper-grade sergeants of the American occupation force will be joined in Germany by their wives and families starting about April 1 if the war department approves a plan now in its hands, it was learned today.

A detailed plan for the transfer of 90,000 women and children from the United States to military posts in Germany has been approved by the European theater headquarters and submitted to Washington.

Occupation force soldiers eligible to have their families with them in Germany include all officers and non-commissioned officers with the rating of staff sergeant or higher. This rule complies with standard procedure governing military posts.

Each military post will have 3,000 inhabitants, under the USFET plan. The greatest problems will be school facilities and medical care, a survey showed.

OTHER STRIKES THREATEN

Meat Packers, Steel Makers Plan To Join Spreading Work Stoppages

By United Press
Western Electric company employees in New York and New Jersey struck today, and Stamford, Conn., workers began walking out in sympathy with Yale and Towne Manufacturing company strikers.

The first of 10,000 workers who threaten to paralyze industrial Stamford with a city-wide strike left their jobs at 11 a. m. EST. Shortly before noon 250 CIO mine, mill and smelter workers marched to the town square. A few minutes later 10 AFL bookbinders appeared.

In all U. S. labor disputes 432,000 workers were idle.

At Detroit, CIO United Auto Workers pickets barred 500 non-striking office workers from General Motors plants. The police said there was no violence—but pickets pushed aside office workers trying to cross the lines.

About 17,400 employees were involved immediately in the Western Electric walkout, called to enforce demands for a 30 percent increase.

The Western Electric Employees association, affiliated with the National Federation of Telephone Workers, has asked telephone operators across the nation to walk out in sympathy. The union predicted that the strike also would spread to 68,000 Western Electric workers throughout the country.

Even more critical walkouts loomed, however, in the nation's steel and meat packing industries. Government experts were continuing efforts to head off the Jan. 14 steel and Jan. 16 meat packing walkouts scheduled by CIO unions.

Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson warned that a meat packing strike would result in severe civilian shortages in a very short time, disrupt European relief and cut deeply into Army needs. Meats stocks, he said, already were low. (Continued on Page Two)

GERMAN TELLS OF KILLING OF JEWS, RUSSIANS

NUERNBERG, Jan. 8.—Maj. Gen. Otto Ohlendorf, one of Heinrich Himmler's henchmen, testified before the war crimes tribunal today that he personally supervised the execution of 90,000 Jews and Russian officials in 1941 and 1942 under Adolf Hitler's orders.

He said the rate of executions was speeded up to relieve the housing shortage.

The sharp-faced general, pale but coldly efficient, testified that he commanded Einsatz D, one of four execution forces sent to the eastern front to execute Hitler's personal orders for liquidation of all Jews and Soviet political commissars.

With almost professional jealousy, he admitted that his record of 90,000 executions was "materially smaller" than the totals reported by the other three groups. He claimed the other groups' scores were exaggerated.

JOHN R. PAUL INJURED WHEN AUTO OVERTURNS

John Richard Paul, 21, a passenger in a car driven by Paul Weaver, Circleville soldier, was slightly injured when the car turned over in a ditch two miles north of Circleville on route 23 at about 1 a. m. Thursday, the sheriff's department has reported.

Weaver was driving a 1939 Plymouth owned by his father, James Weaver, 119 West High street. The front, left side and top of the car were damaged, the sheriff's office stated.

Weaver said that another car came along and hooked against the car he was driving and threw his car into the ditch.

ready are at a very low ebb while demand is heavy.

There also was a possibility of a strike by the nation's shipworkers. No progress was reported in the General Motors walkout. The glass workers' walkout continued. And there was little progress toward a settlement of the oil industry dispute.

Meanwhile, the United Mine Workers were expected to enter the already disturbed labor picture with a new demand for a general wage increase within 60 to 90 days. UMW President John L. Lewis has authority to ask the coal operators to reopen their contract March 1.

The labor scene industry-by-industry:

Automobile — The President's fact-finding panel has asked additional time to make its recommendations in the 44-day old strike of 175,000 CIO United Auto Workers. The report was due today. Company-union negotiations on a demand for a 30 per cent wage increase will resume Monday.

Meat Packing — Federal conciliators assigned in Chicago after walkout was set for Jan. 16 against Armour & Co., Swift & Co., Wilson & Co., and Cudahy Packing company. Strike action hinges on union demand for 17 1/2 cents an hour wage increase.

Steel — U. S. Steel Corp. and CIO United Steelworkers will be asked to resume negotiations on demands for a $2-a-day wage increase when President Truman's fact-finding panel meets Saturday. A company counter-offer might avoid a walkout if OPA agrees to a steel price increase.

Telephone Equipment — Walkout of 17,400 Western Electric employees in New York and New Jersey expected to spread to include 68,000 across the nation. Union willing to retreat from its 30 per cent wage demand if company will raise its 15 per cent offer.

Electrical Manufacturing — Labor department may call joint conference of General Electric company, Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company and CIO United Electrical Workers. Union said it would resume negotiations with Westinghouse and GE only if they made acceptable counter-offers to union demands for a $2-a-day wage increase. General Motors electrical division has offered 13 1/2 cents an hour increase. Strike dates against all three companies will be set Saturday.

Shipbuilding — Shipbuilding stabilization committee continues session. Companies have rejected AFL and CIO demands for general wage increases of 25.9 and 45 per cent each.

Oil-labor department fact-finding panel considered new appeal to companies and oil workers union (CIO) for negotiations on union demand for 30 per cent wage increase. Companies have not yet replied to first appeal Dec. 21.

Glass — Federal conciliators still unable to settle the three-month-old strike by the glass workers (CIO) against Pittsburgh Plate Glass and Libbey - Owens - Ford companies.

Greyhound — Labor department panel meets to organize and plan procedures for settling issues in dispute between Pennsylvania and Central Greyhound bus companies and the Street Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees (AFL). Strike was scheduled to end at 5 a. m. today.

Western Union — Metropolitan New York employees, members of the American communications association (CIO), rejected a 12-cent hourly wage boost approved by the national war labor board and voted to strike Jan. 8. Washington Western Union employees, however, voted to accept the award and "postponed" their strike. They are members of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union (AFL).

HOMMA OFFICE ALONG PATH OF DEATH MARCH

MANILA, Jan. 3.—Lt. Gen. Masaharu Homma maintained his headquarters only 500 yards from the road along which American and Filipino soldiers were forced on the Bataan death march, the first witness testified today at his war crimes trial.

Homma, who commanded Japanese forces in the Philippines in 1941-42, had pleaded innocent to charges that he was responsible for the death march and scores of other atrocities in the Philippines.

Apparently to show that it would have been impossible for Homma not to have been aware of the infamous march, the prosecution called Maj. Gen. Tushimito Takatsu, who had been one of Homma's staff officers, to describe the location of headquarters.

Takatsu began testifying at the afternoon session after the U. S. military commission trying Homma had denied a defense motion for dismissal of the case of the grounds that the court lacked jurisdiction.

The commission also denied a subsequent defense request for a 10-day postponement to permit additional preparations for the trial.

The prosecution introduced copies of the Hague pact on laws of war, the Geneva Red Cross convention and the Geneva pact of 1929 regarding treatment of prisoners of war. All were signed by Japan and the prosecution indicated it would charge Homma violated all.

ADMIRAL STARK STILL ON STAND

Former Operations Chief Of Navy Continues Story Before Probers

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—Adm. Harold R. Stark was called back to the stand at congress' Pearl Harbor inquiry for the third day today.

Stark, 1941 chief of naval operations, has been barred by Secretaries of the Navy James V. Forrestal from ever again holding a position requiring "superior judgment." He now is on terminal leave. Forrestal's action was made public in August, 1944.

Stark told the committee he had searched his correspondence and Navy department records since yesterday's session for "indications of my continuing concern" over an air attack at Pearl Harbor in the last quarter of 1941, but had "found none."

Stark, who has stressed his surprise at the Dec. 7, 1941 assault on Pearl Harbor, said he had received early in 1941 two letters from Adm. Claude C. Bloch, commander of the 14th naval district, on air defenses at Pearl Harbor. These communications, he said, were frequently mentioned in discussions among top naval officers.

He testified that "from time to time" in the later part of 1941 he "mentioned the possibility of an air attack" at Pearl Harbor. Also, he said, once an agreement was reached by the Army and Navy there for defense against air raids, "I felt it no longer necessary to mention the matter in my letters."

As evidence of Adm. Husband E. Kimmel's awareness of the danger of air attack, Stark read a letter from the Pacific fleet commander-in-chief, dated Oct. 14, 1941, in which Kimmel said a surprise air attack might precede a war declaration.

Stark said he had no reason to believe that concern over the possibility of an air attack had "diminished" at Oahu late in 1941 said emphatically.

"And I am certain mine had not."

HYDE FARM IS PURCHASED BY KENTUCKY MEN

The Hyde farm situated about one and one-half miles north of New Holland and consisting of 425-22 acres of land and a beautiful farm home has been sold for approximately $57,000, court house records show.

The farm was sold by Howard L. Hyde and Donald F. Hyde, trustees, to Nicholas B. Fannin and William F. Woods, both of Catlettsburg, Ky. Wilby G. Hyde, deceased, father of the two trustees acquired the farm in 1921 after the death of his father, Allen Hyde.

Part of the farm is located in Marion, township of Fayette county and part of it is in Perry township of Pickaway county. The farm house is situated in Pickaway county.

Deaths and Funerals

MISS FANNIE FRAZIER

Miss Fannie Frazier, 65, of 360 Watt street, died in Berger hospital at 8 p. m. Wednesday shortly after being admitted. A heart affliction brought on by a cold followed by pneumonia caused death.

She was born near Cedar Hill and was the daughter of Louis and Louise Bittie Frazier. Survivors include a brother, Albert Frazier, North Scioto street, and a sister, Mrs. Arthur Hussey, 373 Watt street. Three uncles, William Bittie, Mt. Vernon, Herman and Edward Bittie, Columbus, also survive.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 2:30 p. m. at the Deffenbaugh chapel, the Rev. Edwin Frazier, of the Amanda U. B. circuit, a cousin of the deceased, officiating. Burial will be in Forest cemetery.

Friends may call at the Deffenbaugh funeral home Friday evening.

MRS. SAREPTA THOMPSON

Mrs. Sarepta Thompson, Springfield, died at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Clara Yeazel in Springfield Wednesday.

Mrs. Thompson was a half-sister of Mrs. Clara Mossbarger, Ashville, John H. Carmean of Williamsport and of the late Thomas Edgar Carmean, Circleville.

Funeral will be held at 2 p. m. Friday at the Jackson funeral home in Springfield.

GEORGE TREGO

Funeral services for George M. Trego, 80, retired blacksmith of Chillicothe and a native of Pickaway county will be held Friday at 2 p. m. from Brown's chapel of which he was a member with the Rev. Wright officiating.

Survivors are his widow who was Effie I. Maugher to whom he was married September 18, 1887, a son Clarence Trego, six grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

Mr. Trego died Wednesday at his residence in Union township near Chillicothe following a 10-day illness.

NEW BUREAU TO BEGIN WORKING ON FEBRUARY 1

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—The war assets corporation is going to be delayed a month in starting its job as the government's major surplus war property disposal agency.

Lt. Gen. Edmund B. Gregory, Army quartermaster general, who has been designated chairman of the corporation, told the United Press today that his agency won't start functioning until Feb. 1. It was supposed to get started on Jan. 1.

Gregory said that one reason for the delay was that the corporation, a reconstruction finance corporation subsidiary, had not yet been officially designated a disposal agency. Under the law, surplus property administrator W. Stuart Symington must designate what government agencies may sell excess supplies.

Officials of the SPA could not say why Symington had not issued an immediate authorization.

would consider suggestions of Ohioans for possible recommendation when a special session convenes.

The first special meeting of the legislature was called in August, 1945, when the end of the war made necessary enactment of emergency unemployment benefit legislation.

When the legislators went home after a one-day session the governor announced he would call a second special session after Jan. 1, 1946. Since that time, however, he has injected several "ifs" into conversations concerning the date of the session.

Among the subjects which the governor indicated to Ohioans he would consider for the call were up-to-date laws regulating building, legislation to unify conservation powers in Ohio, and toll road legislation.

Political dopesters in the state's capital city say Governor Lausche must call a session soon, or incur the wrath of a number of groups in the state he has reportedly told he would consider legislation which they advocated.

Lausche has said, however, that it would be impracticable to include all of the "30 to 40 pet projects" of Ohioans in any call. He said it would be necessary to limit the session to the pressing needs of the state.

NEW DIPHTHERIA CARRIER FEARED IN CITY SCHOOL

Attendance in all county and city schools was reported normal and above normal Thursday, but one positive report on a throat culture for diphtheria for a Corwin street school pupil was received.

A culture taken from the throat of Ruth Hunt, fifth grade pupil at Corwin school was found to be positive, indicating that Miss Hunt might be a carrier of diphtheria.

Miss Hunt resides on the Ringgold pike with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Hunt, but attends school in Circleville. School officials were meeting in City Superintendent Frank Fischer's office Thursday afternoon to decide what precautionary measures would be necessary. It was expected that pupils in the room where Miss Hunt was present Wednesday and who have not had diphtheria shots would be kept out of school.

Miss Hunt had been sick since Thanksgiving and was under the care of Dr. Lloyd Jones, who took the throat culture. The Hunt girl does not have diphtheria, health officials stated, and there is a strong possibility that she may not be a carrier of the disease. Persons with positive reports are not necessarily carriers unless the germs present are virulent, health officials stated. A guinea pig test is necessary to determine if a person is a carrier and this requires several weeks.

of strength by local labor to compel the company to meet union demands since the strike was called last Nov. 7. The strike has persisted despite a series of conferences which extended even to the office of Gov. Raymond E. Baldwin.

Cordons of state police, under direction of State Police Commissioner Edward J. Hickey, converged on the city to enforce the governor's order that they preserve law and order and prevent mass picketing.

Labor leaders promised that the walkout would be orderly. Stamford had been somewhat apathetic toward the prolonged Yale & Towne strike. But last night as the general walkout neared, the city took on an expectant air. City officials refused comment.

Picket lines were formed when the Yale & Towne plant first was shut down, but for several weeks the strike drew little notice. Then pickets began to refuse admittance to the plant to top-flight officials, including Yale & Towne President W. Gibson Carey.

Carey protested to Governor Baldwin that the refusal of free access was a violation of constitutional rights.

For nearly a week, 14 company officials who had gained entry refused to leave the plant, fearing that they would not be allowed to return. They cooked their meals in the cafeteria, washed their clothes in the boiler room, and patrolled the 30-acre plant on safety check-ups.

Then Baldwin came here, on Dec. 6, and warned the union against its tactics. He asserted management was within its rights in demanding free access. He admonished both sides to sit down and try to reach an early settlement.

Two weeks later, the union and management held a conference. The company refused to negotiate on the old contract and insisted that a new contract be drawn. The conference was without definite results.

On Dec. 27, state police were used for the first time at the plant when gate-jamming was attempted by the pickets to prevent management officials from entering. Seven pickets were arrested for breach of peace. The following day a company superintendent was arrested for allegedly showing a woman picket.

The union telegraphed Baldwin demanding withdrawal of state police by Jan. 2 and threatening action which would have "national repercussions."

Baldwin said he had no alternative but to enforce the state law which prohibits mass picketing. Monday the governor summoned union attorney Jerome Y. Sturm and company industrial relations counsel Wendell P. Monson to Hartford for a general discussion. The governor then announced that further discussions would be held publicly today at Stamford town hall.

Sturm said, however, that hope for settlement "appeared remote." He declared that the union would not sign an open shop agreement.

Sturm said that "in the face of the company's adamant position on union security and wages, we cannot have hope of success." Monson said the company was equally insistent that it would not sign a closed shop agreement, although it was reported the company might make some concessions at today's meeting in the way of a guaranteed work week of 48 hours with time and one-half after 40 hours.

The company meanwhile canceled its contract with some 600 office workers who are unionized but did not take part in the strike. The company declared that their refusal to cross picket lines was a contract violation.

BY SALVAGING FAT
KITCHEN I GOT
THESE NEW SHEETS!

NO FOOLING! A little extra skimming, scraping and scooping of used cooking fat will bring you household and personal needs sooner. Packaged soaps, laundry soaps, floating soaps, nylon stockings, cotton sheets, paper, electrical appliances all need used cooking fat. Household fat salvages replaces industrial fats and oils that are still very short.

ready are at a very low ebb while demand is heavy.

There also was a possibility of a strike by the nation's shipworkers. No progress was reported in the General Motors walkout. The glass workers walkout continued. And there was little progress toward a settlement of the oil industry dispute.

Meanwhile, the United Mine Workers were expected to enter the already disturbed labor picture with a new demand for a general wage increase within 60 to 90 days. UMW President John L. Lewis has authority to ask the coal operators to reopen their contract March 1.

The labor scene industry-by-industry:

Automobile — The President's fact-finding panel has asked additional time to make its recommendations in the 44-day old strike of 175,000 CIO United Auto Workers. The report was due today. Company-union negotiations on a demand for a 30 per cent wage increase will resume Monday.

Meat Packing — Federal conciliators assigned in Chicago against walkout was set for Jan. 18 against Armour & Co., Swift & Co., Wilson & Co., and Cudahy Packing company. Strike action hinges on union demand for 17 1/2 cents an hour wage increase.

Steel — U. S. Steel Corp. and CIO United Steelworkers will be asked to resume negotiations on demands for a $2-a-day wage increase when President Truman's fact-finding panel meets Saturday. A company counter-offer might avoid a walkout if OPA agrees to a steel price increase.

Telephone Equipment — Walkout of 17,400 Western Electric employees in New York and New Jersey expected to spread to include 68,000 across the nation. Union willing to retreat from its 30 per cent wage demand if company will raise its 15 per cent offer.

Electrical Manufacturing — Labor department may call joint conference of General Electric company, Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company and CIO United Electrical Workers. Union said it would resume negotiations with Westinghouse and GE only if they made acceptable counter-offers to union demands for a $2-a-day wage increase. General Motors electrical division has offered 13 1/2 cents an hour increase. Strike dates against all three companies will be set Saturday.

Shipbuilding — Shipbuilding stabilization committee continues session. Companies have rejected AFL and CIO demands for general wage increases of 25.9 and 45 per cent each.

Oil-labor department fact-finding panel considered new appeal to companies and oil workers union (CIO) for negotiations on union demand for 30 per cent wage increase. Companies have not yet replied to first appeal Dec. 21.

Glass — Federal conciliators still unable to settle the three-month-old strike by the glass workers (CIO) against Pittsburgh Plate Glass and Libbey-Owens-Ford companies.

Greyhound — Labor department panel meets to organize and plan procedures for settling issues in dispute between Pennsylvania and Central Greyhound bus companies and the Street Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees (AFL). Strike was scheduled to end at 5 a. m. today.

Western Union — Metropolitan New York employees, members of the American communications association (CIO), rejected a 12-cent hourly wage boost approved by the national labor board and voted to strike Jan. 8. Washington Western Union employees, however, voted to accept the award and "postponed" their strike. They are members of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union (AFL).

John B. Keilar was reelected to serve as chairman of the board for the coming year.

HOMMA OFFICE ALONG PATH OF DEATH MARCH

MANILA, Jan. 3 — Lt. Gen. Masaharu Homma maintained his headquarters only 500 yards from the road along which American and Filipino soldiers were forced on the Bataan death march, the first witness testified today at his war crimes trial.

Homma, who commanded Japanese forces in the Philippines in 1941-42, had pleaded innocent to charges that he was responsible for the death march and scores of other atrocities in the Philippines.

Apparently to show that it would have been impossible for Homma not to have been aware of the infamous march, the prosecution called Maj. Gen. Tadamichi Takatsu, who had been one of Homma's staff officers, to describe the location of headquarters.

Takatsu began testifying at the afternoon session after the U. S. military commission trying Homma had denied a defense motion for dismissal of the case of the grounds that the court lacked jurisdiction.

ADMIRAL STARK STILL ON STAND

Former Operations Chief Of Navy Continues Story Before Probers

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3 — Adm. Harold R. Stark was called back to the stand at congress' Pearl Harbor inquiry for the third day today.

Stark, 1941 chief of naval operations, has been barred by Secretary of the Navy James V. Forrestal from ever again holding a position requiring "superior judgment." He now is on terminal leave. Forrestal's action was made public in August, 1944.

Stark told the committee he had searched his correspondence and Navy department records since yesterday's session for "indications of my continuing concern" over an air attack at Pearl Harbor in the last quarter of 1941, but had "found none."

Stark, who has stressed his surprise at the Dec. 7, 1941 assault on Pearl Harbor, said he had received early in 1941 two letters from Adm. Claude C. Bloch, commander of the 14th naval district, on air defenses at Pearl Harbor.

These communications, he said, were frequently mentioned in discussions among top naval officers. He testified that "from time to time" in the latter part of 1941 he "mentioned the possibility of an air attack" at Pearl Harbor. Also, he said, once an agreement was reached by the Army and Navy there for defense against air raids, "I felt it no longer necessary to mention the matter in my letters."

As evidence of Adm. Husband E. Kimmel's awareness of the danger of air attack, Stark read a letter from the Pacific fleet commander-in-chief, dated Oct. 14, 1941, in which Kimmel said a surprise air attack might precede a war declaration.

Stark said he had no reason to believe that concern over the possibility of an air attack had "diminished" at Oahu late in 1941 adding emphatically:

"And I am certain mine had not."

HYDE FARM IS PURCHASED BY KENTUCKY MEN

The Hyde farm situated about one and one-half miles north of New Holland and consisting of 425-22 acres of land and a beautiful farm home has been sold for approximately $57,000, court house records show.

The farm was sold by Howard L. Hyde and Donald F. Hyde, trustees, to Nicholas B. Fannin and William F. Woods, both of Catlettsburg, Ky. Wilby G. Hyde, deceased, father of the two trustees acquired the farm in 1921 after the death of his father, Allen Hyde.

Part of the farm is located in Marion township of Fayette county and part of it is in Perry township of Pickaway county. The farm house is situated in Pickaway county.

Deaths and Funerals

MISS FANNIE FRAZIER

Miss Fannie Frazier, 65, of 360 Watt street, died in Berger hospital at 8 p. m. Wednesday shortly after being admitted. A heart affliction brought on by a cold followed by pneumonia caused death.

She was born near Cedar Hill and was the daughter of Louis and Louise Bittie Frazier. Survivors include a brother, Albert Frazier, North Scioto street, and a sister, Mrs. Arthur Hussey, 373 Watt street. Three uncles, William Bittie, Mt. Vernon, Herman and Edward Bittie, Columbus, also survive.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 2:30 p. m. at the Deffenbaugh chapel, the Rev. Edwin Frazier, of the Amanda U. B. circuit, a cousin of the deceased, officiating. Burial will be in Forest cemetery.

Friends may call at the Deffenbaugh funeral home Friday evening.

MRS. SAREPTA THOMPSON
Mrs. Sarepta Thompson, Springfield, died at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Clara Yeazel in Springfield Wednesday.

Mrs. Thompson was a half-sister of Mrs. Clara Mossbarger, Ashville, John H. Carmean of Williamsport and of the late Thomas Edgar Carmean, Circleville.

Funeral will be held at 2 p. m. Friday at the Jackson funeral home in Springfield.

GEORGE TREGO
Funeral services for George M. Trego, 80, retired blacksmith of Chillicothe and a native of Pickaway county will be held Friday at 2 p. m. from Brown's chapel of which he was a member with the Rev. Wright officiating.

Survivors are his widow who was Effie I. Maughner to whom he was married September 18, 1887, a son Clarence Trego, six grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

Mr. Trego died Wednesday at his residence in Union township near Chillicothe following a 10-day illness.

NEW BUREAU TO BEGIN WORKING ON FEBRUARY 1

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3 — The war assets corporation is going to be delayed a month in starting its job as the government's major surplus war property disposal agency.

Lt. Gen. Edmund B. Gregory, Army quartermaster general, who has been designated chairman of the corporation, told the United Press today that his agency won't start functioning until Feb. 1. It was supposed to get started on Jan. 1.

Gregory said that one reason for the delay was that the corporation, a reconstruction finance corporation subsidiary, had not yet been officially designated a disposal agency. Under the law, surplus property administrator W. Stuart Symington must designate what government agencies may sell excess supplies.

Officials of the SPA could not say why Symington had not issued an immediate authorization.

would consider suggestions of Ohioans for possible recommendation when a special session convenes.

The first special meeting of the legislature was called in August, 1945, when the end of the war made necessary enactment of emergency unemployment benefit legislation.

When the legislators went home after a one-day session the governor announced he would call a second special session after Jan. 1, 1946. Since that time, however, he has injected several "ifs" into conversations concerning the date of the session.

Among the subjects which the governor indicated to Ohioans he would consider for the call were up-to-date laws regulating building, legislation to unify conservation powers in Ohio, and toll road legislation.

Political dopesters in the state's capital city say Governor Lausche must call a session soon, or incur the wrath of a number of groups in the state he has reportedly told he would consider legislation which they advocated.

Lausche has said, however, that it would be impracticable to include all of the "30 to 40 pet projects" of Ohioans in any call. He said it would be necessary to limit the session to the pressing needs of the state.

NEW DIPHTHERIA CARRIER FEARED IN CITY SCHOOL

Attendance in all county and city schools was reported normal and above normal Thursday, but one positive report on a throat culture for diphtheria for a Corwin street school pupil was received.

A culture taken from the throat of Ruth Hunt, fifth grade pupil at Corwin school was found to be positive, indicating that Miss Hunt might be a carrier of diphtheria.

Miss Hunt resides on the Ringgold pike with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Hunt, but attends school in Circleville. School officials were meeting in City Superintendent Frank Fischer's office Thursday afternoon to decide what precautionary measures would be necessary. It was expected that pupils in the room where Miss Hunt was present Wednesday and who have not had diphtheria shots would be kept out of school.

Miss Hunt had been sick since Thanksgiving and was under the care of Dr. Lloyd Jones, who took the throat culture. The Hunt girl does not have diphtheria, health officials stated, and there is a strong possibility that she may not be a carrier of the disease. Persons with positive reports are not necessarily carriers unless the germs present are virulent, health officials stated. A guinea pig test is necessary to determine if a person is a carrier and this requires several weeks.

All Union Workers In Town Quit

of strength by local labor to compel the company to meet union demands since the strike was called last Nov. 7. The strike has persisted despite a series of conferences which extended even to the office of Gov. Raymond E. Baldwin.

Cordons of state police, under direction of State Police Commissioner Edward J. Hickey, converged on the city to enforce the governor's order that they preserve law and order and prevent mass picketing.

Labor leaders promised that the walkout would be orderly. Stamford had been somewhat apathetic toward the prolonged Yale & Towne strike. But last night as the general walkout neared, the city took on an expectant air. City officials refused comment.

Picket lines were formed when the Yale & Towne plant first was shut down, but for several weeks the strike drew little notice. Then pickets began to refuse admittance to the plant to top-flight officials, including Yale & Towne President W. Gibson Carey.

Carey protested to Governor Baldwin that the refusal of free access was a violation of constitutional rights.

For nearly a week, 14 company officials who had gained entry refused to leave the plant, fearing that they would not be allowed to return. They cooked their meals in the cafeteria, washed their clothes in the boiler room, and patrolled the 30-acre plant on safety check-ups.

Then Baldwin came here, on Dec. 6, and warned the union against its tactics. He asserted management was within its rights in demanding free access. He admonished both sides to sit down and try to reach an early settlement.

Two weeks later, the union and management held a conference. The company refused to negotiate on the old contract and insisted that a new contract be drawn. The conference was without definite results.

On Dec. 27, state police were used for the first time at the plant when gate-jamming was attempted by the pickets to prevent management officials from entering. Seven pickets were arrested for breach of peace. The following day a company superintendent was arrested for allegedly showing a woman picket.

The union telegraphed Baldwin demanding withdrawal of state police by Jan. 2 and threatening action which would have "national repercussions."

Baldwin said he had no alternative but to enforce the state law which prohibits mass picketing. Monday the governor summoned union attorney Jerome Y. Sturm and company industrial relations counsel Wendell P. Monson to Hartford for a general discussion. The governor then announced that further discussions would be held publicly today at Stamford town hall.

Sturm said, however, that hope for settlement "appeared remote." He declared that the union would not sign an open shop agreement.

Sturm said that "in the face of the company's adamant position on union security and wages, we cannot have hope of success."

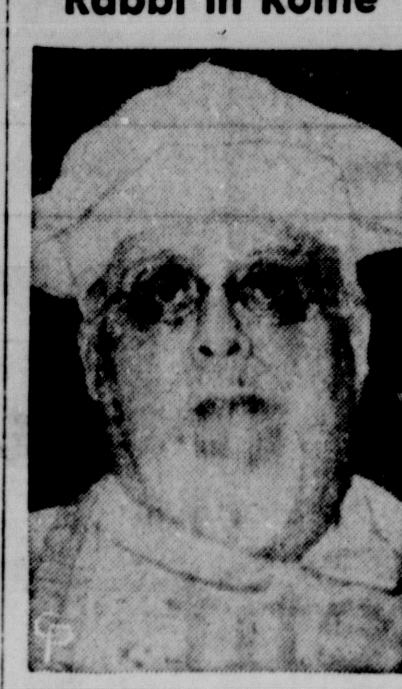

Monson said the company was equally insistent that it would not sign a closed shop agreement, although it was reported the company might make some concessions at today's meeting in the way of a guaranteed work week of 48 hours with time and one-half after 40 hours.

The company meanwhile canceled its contract with some 600 office workers who are unionized but did not take part in the strike. The company declared that their refusal to cross picket lines was a contract violation.

Joyce was executed under a 600-year-old law for adhering to the enemies of King George VI. Born an American, he came under British jurisdiction because he held a British passport when the war began. He broadcast from Germany while still a subject of the British crown.

The traitor's wife said farewell to him shortly after dawn, then was returned to her own cell at Holloway prison. She was captured with him at Flensburg last May 28. His brother, Quintin, and a sister also paid him a goodbye call. Quintin later attended a memorial service for him it was understood.

The most hated of Britain's traitors was hanged on the same gallows on which John Amery was put to death on Dec. 19 for a similar offense.

The 39-year-old Joyce was still defiant when the house of lords rejected his appeal on Dec. 18, and told a friend that he had no regrets for his actions.

vestigation of Army and Navy courts martial by a special committee composed of three members from each of the judiciary, military and naval committees.

Morse also has complained of injustices which he says were committed—and still are being committed—by courts martial. He said today that he also had received a particularly large number of complaints from Hawaii.

McCarran was asked if he could confirm reports of arbitrary imprisonment of American citizens in Hawaii under military rule.

"It was more than that—there are worse things than just being locked up," he replied, but did not elaborate further.

Morse's resolution would ask the proposed special committee to give particular attention to "(1) alleged miscarriages of justice arising out of the operation of such (courts martial) systems and places of incarceration; (2) whether punishments are unduly excessive; (3) the alleged lack of uniformity in punishment; (4) whether present methods of holding courts martial are desirable and proper; and (5) any desirable improvements in or modifications of courts martial systems and places of incarceration or the administration thereof."

MORE ORDERLY MARKETING OF HOGS ADVISED

Boggs States Pork Prices Will Hold Up If Market Watched

Price breaks which occurred in some large hog markets early in December should serve notice to every farmer who has hogs to sell of the need for orderly marketing to avoid further sharp price drops and holdover losses, according to John G. Boggs, county AAA chairman.

Information received from the department of agriculture indicates that there are not too many hogs on farms for the market this winter if an even marketing flow is maintained.

The 1945 spring pig crop, now coming to market, is 7 per cent smaller than the 1944 spring pig crop, which in turn was 24 per cent less than the 1943 spring pig crop. Furthermore, there is a demand for every pound of pork and pork products produced this winter. Between a billion and a billion and a half pounds of meat—a substantial part of it pork—will be shipped to Europe for relief and other export programs. In addition, U. S. civilians want more pork, bacon and lard.

Whenever a packer has more hogs than he can handle, however, he has only one recourse—to reduce the price and try to keep hogs back until he can catch up. Farmers should be alert to this condition and avoid heavy marketings when terminal markets are oversupplied and prices are breaking. They should be sure that the market can handle hogs before they leave the farm.

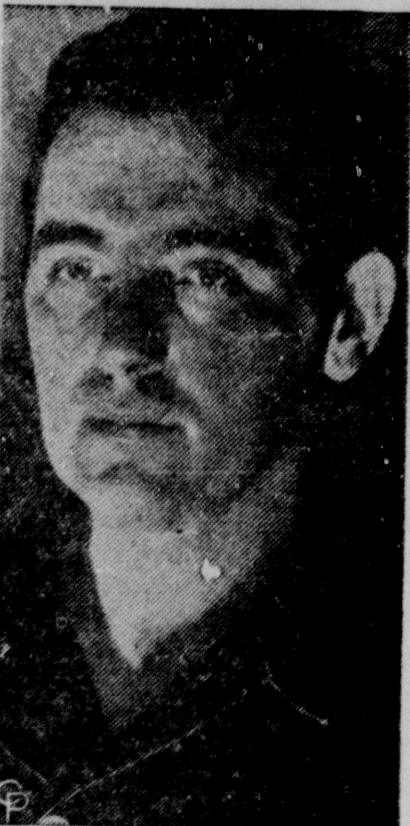

A five-point program of orderly marketing was given by Mr. Boggs:

1. Avoid scares and rumors. There are not too many hogs if they are marketed in an orderly way.
2. Keep posted on markets and price trends. Know the facts.
3. When hogs are ready, check markets daily.
4. Keep an even flow of hogs going to market. If marketings decline send your hogs in.
5. Be alert to changes. Check with your trucker, buyer, or commission firm every day when you have hogs to sell.

PIONEER SOCIAL WORKER BEGAN SERVICE INDEX

BOSTON—Miss Laura G. Woodberry, who pioneered in social work 41 years ago by originating the widely-used Social Service Index, still remains active in the profession of helping her fellowmen.

Hardly a social worker anywhere would think of taking a case today without first consulting the omniscient card index which Miss Woodberry conceived in 1904 when she took charge of the Associated Charities of Boston.

Miss Woodberry, a small, bright-eyed woman, credits the Index with preventing duplication of aid and protecting the needy from unscrupulous and indiscriminate social work by listing every contact an individual or family might have with bona fide charitable organizations.

All agencies voluntarily contribute information to the Index which concerns itself not with facts about the needy in "case history" form, but with data concerning their application and disposition by the recognized charities.

The Social Service Index of Boston has since been widely-copied by other cities.

NATURAL SOUND IS PLANNED BY GRAND THEATER

A new sound system that reproduces voices and sounds in a natural manner never before achieved is now in the process of installation in the Grand Theater in Circleville.

The new sound system, known as the "Voice of the Theatre" will first be employed by the local theater Sunday when "Stork Club," with Betty Hutton and Barry Fitzgerald is presented.

Movie-goers to the Grand Sunday will have the opportunity of being one of the first small-city audiences to enjoy the new sound system which has been installed by only a few theaters in either large or small cities.

The local theater is installing the new sound system at great expense; so that moviegoers in Circleville may enjoy the finest in sound reproduction and so that Circleville may be one of the first cities in the nation to have the new post-war sound system in its leading theater, Manager Harold Watts said.

Mr. Watts announced that the new system will give local patrons their first chance to hear natural sound in a talking picture.

"The Voice of the Theatre" brings sound in full color and full presence to movie-goers. This startling new development is said to be one of the most revolutionary steps forward in sound reproduction since the birth of talking movies," Mr. Watts commented.

MORE ORDERLY MARKETING OF HOGS ADVISED

Boggs States Pork Prices Will Hold Up If Market Watched

Price breaks which occurred in some large hog markets early in December should serve notice to every farmer who has hogs to sell of the need for orderly marketing to avoid further sharp price drops and holdover losses, according to John G. Boggs, county AAA chairman.

Information received from the department of agriculture indicates that there are not too many hogs on farms for the market this winter if an even marketing flow is maintained.

The 1945 spring pig crop, now coming to market, is 7 per cent smaller than the 1944 spring pig crop, which in turn was 24 per cent less than the 1943 spring pig crop. Furthermore, there is a demand for every pound of pork and pork products produced this winter. Between a billion and a billion and a half pounds of meat—a substantial part of it pork—will be shipped to Europe for relief and other export programs. In addition, U. S. civilians want more pork, bacon and lard.

Whenever a packer has more hogs than he can handle, however, he has only one recourse—to reduce the price and try to keep hogs back until he can catch up. Farmers should be alert to this condition and avoid heavy marketings when terminal markets are oversupplied and prices are breaking. They should be sure that the market can handle hogs before they leave the farm.

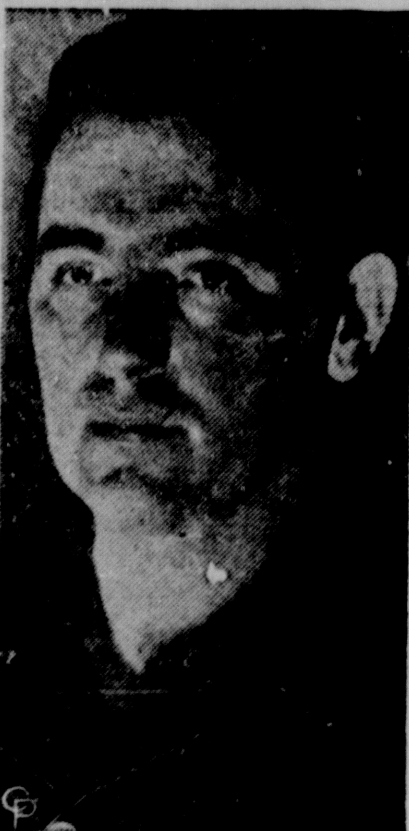

A five-point program of orderly marketing was given by Mr. Boggs:

1. Avoid scares and rumors. There are not too many hogs if they are marketed in an orderly way.
2. Keep posted on markets and price trends. Know the facts.
3. When hogs are ready, check markets daily.
4. Keep an even flow of hogs going to market. If marketings decline send your hogs in.
5. Be alert to changes. Check with your trucker, buyer, or commission firm every day when you have hogs to sell.

Authorities say that Hirt admitted membership in the Nazi Party and that he was a corporal in Hitler's Storm Troops. (International)

PIONEER SOCIAL WORKER BEGAN SERVICE INDEX

BOSTON—Miss Laura G. Woodberry, who pioneered in social work 41 years ago by originating the widely-used Social Service Index, still remains active in the profession of helping her fellowmen.

Hardly a social worker anywhere would think of taking a case today without first consulting the omniscient card index which Miss Woodberry conceived in 1904 when she took charge of the Associated Charities of Boston.

Miss Woodberry, a small, bright-eyed woman, credits the index with preventing duplication of aid and protecting the needy from unscrupulous and indiscriminate social work by listing every contact an individual or family might have with bona fide charitable organizations.

All agencies voluntarily contribute information to the index which concerns itself not with facts about the needy in "case history" form, but with data concerning their application and disposition by the recognized charities.

The Social Service Index of Boston has since been widely-copied by other cities.

TIRES SCARCE IN CITY AFTER RATIONING ENDS

Rush Leaves Many Dealers
Without Tires; Pinch
Will Continue

Tire rationing has ended but a checkup Thursday revealed that tires are few and far between at Circleville dealers.

"Thin pinch will be on for a few more weeks," one dealer said, "until manufacturers can get enough tires to the distributors to meet the demand."

Several dealers reported having a few tires on hand after the big rush of the first two days' business but most of the meager stocks that were on hand when tire rationing ended have been exhausted, dealers asserted.

Most tires at some stores had already been laid away for customers who poured into the stores Tuesday and Wednesday to get their tires while others rushed in to buy.

Most dealers agreed that recently the headache of car owners in obtaining certificates for tires has now become the malady of the tire merchant who is trying to get tires to satisfy a demand that is nothing short of enormous.

Manufacturers are planning to use an allotment plan to give so many tires to each distributor as soon as a quantity of tires can be turned out. This plan would insure a share of the initial tire production for each dealer. Some dealers are inaugurating their own rationing program.

Dealers as a whole declared that personal favoritism would not be practiced.

ASHVILLE

A large part of Walnut township was hunted over last Saturday in pursuit of sly Reynard, the fox. The drive was most successful, ending in the slaying of seven foxes. Much credit goes to George Layless and Ralph "Slim" Gilliam for their efforts in organizing and directing the drive. A crowd estimated at more than 100 took part, including one young lady, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Eit and a freshman in the Walnut township school.

Farmers in the Walnut community wish to thank the several Ashville residents who participated in the drive. Very few farmers in the Walnut community but what have suffered losses to their poultry flocks by foxes during the past years, to say nothing about the destruction of wild life, especially quail and pheasants.

A happy New Year's dinner was enjoyed by Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Litten and family and their guest, Miss Martha Hafertene, a graduate nurse of Cincinnati, Ohio. George W. Litten, the eldest son, has received his discharge from the U. S. Army Air Corps after serving four years. John Robert Litten, who enlisted in the U. S. Navy in June, 1942, and who has the rank of Radio Airman 2/c, has until June, 1946, yet to serve, having enlisted for a term of four years. This is the first time since January 1, 1942, that the family members have all been together for a New Year's dinner.

The Ashville schools re-opened Wednesday after having been closed since December 7. Attendance was good with 15 absences being reported in the elementary school and 4 in the high school. The basketball game with Jackson township, scheduled for Friday on the Jackson floor, has been postponed until Tuesday because of illness among Jackson players. An effort is being made to schedule a replacement game for this week, possibly with Saltcreek township.

C. D. Kraft was called to Circleville Wednesday because of the critical illness of his mother, Mrs. Harry Kraft, East Franklin street.

Dr. C. W. Cromley is attending a veterinarians' short course at Ohio State Wednesday through Friday of this week.

Albert Brown, new manager of the Ashville Zero Locker, and family have moved to Ashville from Portsmouth.

William "Dick" Pettibone was removed to his home Wednesday from St. Anthony's hospital where he had been confined since Christmas Day, recovering from a gun shot wound.

HOME HOLIDAYS MERRIEST EVER

Mr. and Mrs. Porter Express
Appreciation For Gifts
Sent To Children

The recent holidays were the "merriest ever" for children at the Pickaway county home, according to Mr. and Mrs. Carl Porter, who are in charge of the home.

In expressing their appreciation publicly Mr. and Mrs. Porter said that the holiday season was the best ever experienced at the home in the three years they have been there.

Many organizations, individuals and stores supplied gifts, toys, candy, fruit and other holiday treats.

Mr. and Mrs. Porter said "we sincerely hope your efforts in giving brought as much joy to you as the children had in receiving each gift provided."

"We are especially grateful to the following clubs and organizations for their most generous contributions: Kiwanis Club for the lovely Christmas party; Gerald and Virgil Hanley for individual treats of fruit and candy; Ashville Scouts for the large number of dolls and other gifts; Mrs. Alice Brown and the Junior Girls Reserve for gifts and books; The Westminster Bible Class and Miss Florence Dutton for subscriptions to Children's magazine; Moore's of Ohio stores for ice cream for the children's Christmas dinner; Zelda Bible Class and Circle of the Methodist church for gifts and toys.

"The Von Bora and Ladies Society of the Lutheran church for gifts and toys; The Rev. L. C. Sherburne, Mrs. Sherburne and the Sunday School teachers of St. Philip's Episcopal church for fruit and gifts, the Columbus Auto Club, 50 pounds of candy; John Magill of the Western Auto store; Don Henkle of Murphy's store and Cussins and Fearn store for their donations of toys, games and books."

Most dealers agreed that recently the headache of car owners in obtaining certificates for tires has now become the malady of the tire merchant who is trying to get tires to satisfy a demand that is nothing short of enormous.

Manufacturers are planning to use an allotment plan to give so many tires to each distributor as soon as a quantity of tires can be turned out. This plan would insure a share of the initial tire production for each dealer. Some dealers are inaugurating their own rationing program.

Dealers as a whole declared that personal favoritism would not be practiced.

ASHVILLE

A large part of Walnut township was hunted over last Saturday in pursuit of sly Reynard, the fox. The drive was most successful, ending in the slaying of seven foxes. Much credit goes to George Lawless and Ralph "Slim" Gilliam for their efforts in organizing and directing the drive. A crowd estimated at more than 100 took part, including one young lady, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Eit and a freshman in the Walnut township school.

Farmers in the Walnut community wish to thank the several Ashville residents who participated in the drive. Very few farmers in the Walnut community but what have suffered losses to their poultry flocks by foxes during the past years, to say nothing about the destruction of wild life, especially quail and pheasants.

A happy New Year's dinner was enjoyed by Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Litten and family and their guest, Miss Martha Hafertenn, a graduate nurse of Cincinnati, Ohio. George W. Litten, the eldest son, has received his discharge from the U. S. Army Air Corps after serving four years. John Robert Litten, who enlisted in the U. S. Navy in June, 1942, and who has the rank of Radio Airman 2/c, has until June, 1946, yet to serve, having enlisted for a term of four years. This is the first time since January 1, 1942, that the family members have all been together for a New Year's dinner.

The Ashville schools re-opened Wednesday after having been closed since December 7. Attendance was good with 15 absences being reported in the elementary school and 4 in the high school. The basketball game with Jackson township, scheduled for Friday on the Jackson floor, has been postponed until Tuesday because of illness among Jackson players. An effort is being made to schedule a replacement game for this week, possibly with Saltcreek township.

C. D. Kraft was called to Circleville Wednesday because of the critical illness of his mother, Mrs. Harry Kraft, East Franklin street.

Dr. C. W. Crowley is attending a veterinarians' short course at Ohio State Wednesday through Friday of this week.

Albert Brown, new manager of the Ashville Zero Locker, and family have moved to Ashville from Portsmouth.

William "Dick" Pettibone was removed to his home Wednesday from St. Anthony's hospital where he had been confined since Christmas Day, recovering from a gun shot wound.

HOME HOLIDAYS MERRIEST EVER

Mr. and Mrs. Porter Express
Appreciation For Gifts
Sent To Children

The recent holidays were the "merriest ever" for children at the Pickaway county home, according to Mr. and Mrs. Carl Porter, who are in charge of the home.

In expressing their appreciation publicly Mr. and Mrs. Porter said that the holiday season was the best ever experienced at the home in the three years they have been there.

Many organizations, individuals and stores supplied gifts, toys, candy, fruit and other holiday treats.

Mr. and Mrs. Porter said "we sincerely hope your efforts in giving brought as much joy to you as the children had in receiving each gift provided."

"We are especially grateful to the following clubs and organizations for their most generous contributions: Kiwanis Club for the lovely Christmas party; Gerald and Virgil Hanley for individual treats of fruit and candy; Ashville Scouts for the large number of dolls and other gifts; Mrs. Alice Brown and the Junior Girls Reserve for gifts and books; The Westminster Bible Class and Miss Florence Duntun for subscriptions to Children's magazine; Moore's of Ohio stores for ice cream for the children's Christmas dinner; Zelda Bible Class and Circle of the Methodist church for gifts and toys.

"The Von Bora and Ladies Society of the Lutheran church for gifts and toys; The Rev. L. C. Sherburne, Mrs. Sherburne and the Sunday School teachers of St. Philip's Episcopal church for fruit and gifts, the Columbus Auto Club, 50 pounds of candy; John Magill of the Western Auto store; Don Henkle of Murphy's store and Cussins and Fearn store for their donations of toys, games and books."

Also discharged at Camp Atterbury were the following: M/Sgt. Emil E. Stonerock, route 2 Circleville; Sgt. Virgil G. Boyer, route 4 Circleville; Cpl. Arthur K. Bowman, 416 East Franklin street; T/5 Marshall M. Green, New Holland, and Pfc. Richard J. Halmerl, route 2 Orient.

Discharged at Indiantown Gap, Pa., were the following: S/Sgt. Earl T. Rea, New Holland; Sgt. Earl R. Winegarner, Circleville; T/5 Ronald F. Streitenberger, 116 West Ohio street; T/5 James W. Ward, route 2 Ashville; T/5 Paul E. Tarbill, route 3 Mt. Sterling; Pfc. Orin Dreisbach, route 1 Circleville, and Pvt. Frederick C. Kinney, Williamsport.

Sgt. William D. Ernst of the Marine Air Corp is home from the South Pacific on a 30-day furlough, visiting his mother, Mrs. Mabel Ernst, East Franklin street.

Sgt. Ernst has been in the service more than two years, having enlisted immediately upon graduation from Circleville high school with the class of 1943.

Pfc. Marvin E. Marshall, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Marshall, will have a birthday January 22. He has following address: Pfc. Marvin E. Marshall, 35889524, 64th Trans. Corp., Harbor Craft Co.,

NAVY REVEALS THREE NEWEST AIR WEAPONS

PHILADELPHIA—The Navy has revealed that three new weapons were developed and manufactured at the Naval aircraft modification unit, Johnsville, Pa., to rival Germany's buzz-bombs and Japan's kamikaze planes.

The weapons, known as gorgon, gargoyle and glomb, were pilotless aircraft, capable of speeds of more than 500 miles an hour under radio control. They were built and tested in the past two years.

The gorgon, designed to carry 100 pounds of explosives in its nose, is a jet-propelled missile which can be directed to its target by radio control, or by its own automatic target-seeking device after release from a mother plane.

The gargoyle, also jet-propelled, carries a 1,000-pound armor-piercing bomb, controlled visually by radio when released from the fuselage of a fighter plane. It can attain a top speed of 700 miles an hour in a dive on the target.

The glomb, or glider bomb, can carry 4,000 pounds of explosives. It is towed by a fighter plane or patrol bomber and automatically released from the tow-plane by radio-control. The bomb has a television transmitter in its nose which permits the pilot to guide it to a target when the pilot is not on the line of sight.

ATLANTA

Mr. and Mrs. Orin Wiscup and sons visited Wednesday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Lauderman and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gordon of Frankfort.

Sunday afternoon guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Willis were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Willis and daughter Sandra and son Jimmy and Mrs. Coyt Willis of Columbus; Mrs. Harry Armstrong and Misses Lillie and Betsy Briggs of New Holland; Mr. and Mrs. Harley Hiser and family of Clarksburg; Mr. and Mrs. Homer Willis of Roxabel; and Ross Willis.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sheppard of Mt. Sterling, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mills, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bush, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Donohue were Sunday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Matthews and Mrs. William Ralph. The occasion honored Mrs. Matthews on her birthday anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. William Sorenson II of Baltimore, Maryland arrived Sunday morning for a few days' visit with the latter's father and sister, Ernell Wright and Mrs. Eugene Bush and son Ronnie. Other Sunday dinner guests at the Wright home were David Steinhauer and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wright and daughters.

Mrs. Marvin Orinhood and children of New Holland were dinner guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Armentrout and family.

Recent evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Hoskins Sr. were: Mrs. Ulin McGhee, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Skinner and son Gary, John Skinner, Mr. and Mrs. George Skinner, and Mrs. Pharo Osborn.

Toll road proponents, meanwhile, were planning to meet in Columbus on Jan. 8 or 9. Similar groups were expected to meet in other states where interest heightened as it became clear that the present highways could not adequately handle post-war traffic.

Since neither the state nor federal government wants to increase its war-loaded debt, it has been suggested that private capital, already looking for an investment, be diverted to road building.

Supporters of the measure point out that the necessary roads could be built now without the delays of government red tape and be put into use almost immediately.

Ohio proposals have come from several sources.

H. R. Klepinger, superintendent of special projects for American Steel and Wire Co. has backed plans for a toll road from Pittsburgh to Cleveland and Walter Flory, vice chairman of the Cleveland planning commission is supporting a measure to construct a toll road from Cleveland, through Columbus to Cincinnati.

Don E. Patterson, Lorain county engineer, has suggested a toll road to extend the Pennsylvania turnpike across Ohio to Toledo.

GOV. LAUSCHE CONSIDERS TOLL ROAD PROPOSAL

CLEVELAND, Jan. 3—Interest in the eight-year-old proposal of former Ohio Sen. Robert J. Buckley to construct a $3,000,000 nation-wide system of toll roads with private capital surged ahead today as Gov. Frank J. Lausche indicated he might ask the special session of the Ohio assembly to consider toll road legislation.

Captain Joseph E. Goeller, dentist, 434 East Franklin street, and Captain John A. Mader, East Main street, of the Air Corps, received their discharges at Camp Attentbury, Ind., on the same day.

Also discharged at Camp Attentbury were the following: M/Sgt. Emil E. Stonerock, route 2 Circleville; Sgt. Virgil G. Boyer, route 4 Circleville; Cpl. Arthur K. Bowman, 416 East Franklin street; T/5 Marshall M. Green, New Holland, and Pfc. Richard J. Halmerl, route 2 Orient.

Discharged at Indiantown Gap, Pa., were the following: S/Sgt. Earl T. Rea, New Holland; Sgt. Earl R. Winegarner, Circleville; T/5 Ronald F. Streitenberger, 116 West Ohio street; T/5 James W. Ward, route 2 Ashville; T/5 Paul E. Tarbill, route 3 Mt. Sterling; Pfc. Orin Dreishach, route 1 Circleville, and Pfc. Frederick C. Kinney, Williamsport.

Sgt. William D. Ernst of the Marine Air Corp. is home from the South Pacific on a 30-day furlough, visiting his mother, Mrs. Mabel Ernst, East Franklin street.

Sgt. Ernst has been in the service more than two years, having enlisted immediately upon graduation from Circleville high school with the class of 1943.

Pfc. Marvin E. Marshall, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Marshall, will have a birthday January 22. He has following address: Pfc. Marvin E. Marshall, 35886524, 64th Trans. Corp., Harbor Craft Co.,

NAVY REVEALS THREE NEWEST AIR WEAPONS

PHILADELPHIA—The Navy has revealed that three new weapons were developed and manufactured at the Naval aircraft modification unit, Johnsville, Pa., to rival Germany's buzz-bombs and Japan's kamikaze planes.

The weapons, known as gorgon, gargoyle and glomb, were pilotless aircraft, capable of speeds of more than 500 miles an hour under radio control. They were built and tested in the past two years.

The gorgon, designed to carry 100 pounds of explosives in its nose, is a jet-propelled missile which can be directed to its target by radio control, or by its own automatic target-seeking device after release from a mother plane.

The gargoyle, also jet-propelled, carries a 1,000-pound armor-piercing bomb, controlled visually by radio when released from the fuselage of a fighter plane. It can attain a top speed of 700 miles an hour in a dive on the target.

The glomb, or glider bomb, can carry 4,000 pounds of explosives. It is towed by a fighter plane or patrol bomber and automatically released from the tow-plane by radio-control. The bomb has a television transmitter in its nose which permits the flier to guide it to a target when the pilot is not on the line of sight.

GOV. LAUSCHE CONSIDERS TOLL ROAD PROPOSAL

CLEVELAND, Jan. 3.—Interest in the eight-year-old proposal of former Ohio Sen. Robert J. Buckley to construct a $3,000,000 nationwide system of toll roads with private capital surged ahead today as Gov. Frank J. Lausche indicated he might ask the special session of the Ohio assembly to consider toll road legislation.

Toll road proponents, meanwhile, were planning to meet in Columbus on Jan. 8 or 9. Similar groups were expected to meet in other states where interest heightened as it became clear that the present highways could not adequately handle post-war traffic.

Since neither the state nor federal government wants to increase its war-loaded debt, it has been suggested that private capital, already looking for an investment, be diverted to road building.

Supporters of the measure point out that the necessary roads could be built now without the delays of government red tape and be put into use almost immediately.

Ohio proposals have come from several sources.

H. R. Kiepinger, superintendent of special projects for American Steel and Wire Co. has backed plans for a toll road from Pittsburgh to Cleveland and Walter Flory, vice chairman of the Cleveland planning commission is supporting a measure to construct a toll road from Cleveland, through Columbus to Cincinnati.

Don E. Patterson, Lorain county engineer, has suggested a toll road to extend the Pennsylvania turnpike across Ohio to Toledo.

STRANGE PROCEDURE

GEN. Douglas MacArthur seems to be a "good soldier" in a passive as well as an active sense. He doesn't like the four-power control of Japan as it was worked out at the Moscow conference, and regards the terms as "not acceptable," but will do his military duty and see it through. Obviously, however, the thing that rankles in his soul is the fact that he, who probably knew the whole Japanese problem better than anyone else, and had every reason to expect that at least his opinion would be sought in handling that important matter, was ignored in the procedure. He has stated frankly that he was not consulted during the Moscow conference, and "has no iota of responsibility for the decisions made there."

A spokesman for MacArthur has declared that the latter never received any information or communication whatever, regarding what was done and said at the Moscow conference, and didn't know that Japan was being discussed until he saw it in the press. This seems like a strange way to wind up a war, or to leave its basic facts in such shape that history can approve them.

TYPEWRITERS FOR WOMEN

THE inventor of the first practical typewriter said "I have done something for women. I have made it easier for them to earn a living." The man was a Milwaukee printer, C. Latham Sholes, and it was the year 1867. His first model was flower-decorated and fitted to a sewing machine standard. A foot treadle like that on a sewing machine operated the carriage return. The career girls who first ran these were pompadours, leg-o-mutton sleeves, bustles and such long skirts that they had to pull them up to get their foot on the treadle.

The army of stenographers who today take letters from crotchety, Tired Business Men might not agree with all of inventor Sholes' smug satisfactions especially that part about his machine providing them with an easy way to make a living. But he certainly did make radical changes in office work and the freedom of women.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . . . Hour by Hour

Pages From the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:

Up to a cold morning, but with a clear sky awaiting the rising sun. A mighty welcome condition after the recent bluster. Wondered about the new year and what it might bring, but heaved no sighs over the one just past even though it brought us victory at arms. A year crowded with sweat and tears and uncertainty, and a goodly quantity crowded over into 1948. Much worry about the atomic bomb, but we have at least as much to worry about in our economic state. US and our debt of $262,000,000,000. How much is that? I don't know and you don't know, but I do know that it is more money than was owed by the federal government, all our states and counties and townships and incorporated cities, all our industry, all our farm and home owners just a few years back. I know that the interest on it each year is more money than was required to operate the federal government before we started to spend ourselves out of debt.

Cranked the wagon and headed for the plant, passing the home of Frank Lynch on the way. Dropped in to chat with him the other day and found him affected by the remembrances of his host of friends. Wanted to run an ad thanking them, for he is unable to write. Refused the ad and am taking this opportunity to pass on Frank's thanks to all of you. And his thanks comes straight from the heart.

In came Col. Harry Jackson whose long service in the Army is at an end and who will resume local practice of medicine after a refresher course at Ohio State. Jack met with a rousing reception everywhere in the ville, and that is as it should be. A good doctor comes home.

There goes Joe Rooney who with 20 men of his state crew deserve medals for their fine work in keeping the state highways clear during the ice and snow storms. Had occasion to travel on several days and nowhere else did find highways as clear as in Joe's district. No 40 hour weeks for the highway crews when travel is endangered. On through the day and through the night. And mighty little the public realizes or appreciates what is done. Yes, a bow to Joe and all of his men.

Charlie Niles dropped in and we talked of this and that, for we had not met since the Summer. Always delighted to see and chat with him, for always I learn something. This time a new insight into his character. Charlie is a farmer and during working hours looks the part. He is what I would call a wealthy farmer, but entirely lacking in the pretenses of wealth. Just before he drove away in his truck and as he sat in the car and I stood alongside, a motorist passed us, stopped his car, came back to ask Charlie if he would do some hauling for him. Charlie greeted him civilly, answered him civilly, told him that his time was very much occupied and voiced regret at inability to help him. The stranger got in his car and left, entirely unaware of the identity of the man he had sought to hire. Charlie resumed conversation where it had been interrupted, but I thinking much more of what a decent chap he is. Learned that he is just 55 years old and would like to live another 55 years. Asked me if I would not like to live another half century. Told him no and meant it.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3—The men who know what makes the stock market tick—if they do not tick it themselves—tell me the soaring heights of financial grandeur it has now reached cannot be attributed to the normal considerations, or those generally advertised.

Earnings of the corporations have nothing to do with the case, they say. Nor is fear of inflation an uppermost impetus, although stocks afford a place for depreciating money to keep up with advancing prices in value.

If stocks go up as money goes down, then, theoretically at any rate, you save the loss from money depreciation due to advancing prices by buying stocks—and I say "theoretically" because it all depends on for what you ultimately sell the stocks. The buying of stocks is due, they assert, to the fact that it is practically impossible for anyone to start a new big business today. Capital is easy enough to get, but then your troubles start.

You must acquire plant and if this requires new building, it is practically impossible. Materials are not available.

But if you get your plant built, you must have workers and today there is a shortage in all lines of employment.

If, by your superior ability, you get both plant and workers, then you can start into competition with those who already have both.

Thus, the corporation or the man already in business, has a leg-up on the post-war era, which fresh competition is finding it difficult to match. These conditions should, in all reasonable expectations, prevail nearly if not entirely through the coming year.

The key to this locked question is a subject Mr. Truman recently has been doing something about—housing.

The labor end of new business should be solved, to whatever extent it can be solved, by demobilization of the armed force manpower. But plants cannot be furnished until materials are available.

The sensational wartime square footage of manufacturing floor space cannot become productive in fresh competitive enterprise until both resources become available—including housing for workers.

A New York financial genius tells me residential housing is behind 15 years, instead of 5½ years as officially decreed. Unless a gigantic building program is undertaken, he says, the situation cannot be met, and he means the situation on rents, home and office scarcity.

But frankly, I do not understand this matter entirely. You can see new housing has been restrained for 15 years.

We have feared building because we (1920-29) overbuilt for a depression era. We tore down structures during the Roosevelt era and made parking lots because the buildings could not be rented.

The war era did not bring an increase in the population needing housing, beyond the new housing we provided in most of the large cities through housing projects. But people moved up a few notches in their housing demands—required and demanded more and better residences and offices.

The crisis in housing due to this abnormal demand still persists, and if national income continues to hold this level or go

Little Yet Known Of Stomach Ulcers

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

THE cause of ulcer of the stomach and first part of the bowel or duodenum is still not known. However, it would appear that two things are necessary for the formation of such ulcer. First, there must be death of some of the tissues in the lining membrane of the stomach or bowel and, secondly, this tissue must be digested by the pepsin and hydrochloric acid in the stomach or gastric juice.

Gastric juice composed of hydrochloric acid and pepsin is formed in considerable amount soon after eating. Normally, there is only a small amount of gastric juice in the "empty" stomach and the lining membrane is protected by a layer of mucus. The amount of acid and pepsin formed when food is eaten will depend on the type of the food.

More Mucus

Together with the formation of gastric juice, more mucus is produced, which covers the lining membrane and protects it against the hydrochloric acid. The food eaten also, in a way, helps to protect the stomach against the action of the acid. For example, protein foods, such as meat, milk and eggs, combine with and neutralize the hydrochloric acid.

Fats cause a longer lasting secretion of the gastric juice but in lesser amount than do the protein foods. Fats also cause an increased secretion of mucus, and a flowing back of alkaline pancreatic juice and of bile from the intestine into the stomach. The pancreatic juice and bile exercise a neutralizing, diluting and protective action in the stomach. Starches and sugars do not have any of these properties.

Irregular Eating

Doctor Rudolf Ehrmann of New York thinks that irregular eating habits and poor nourishment may be a factor in the development of ulcer. He thinks that eating large amounts of coarse vegetables may overdistend the stomach and make the lining membrane more vulnerable to attack, as the gastric juice is not neutralized to any extent by vegetable food.

These coarse foods may also directly injure the lining membrane which appears, according to Doctor Ehrmann, to be a good reason why raw salads, as well as vegetables, are eaten with some oil dressing, or other fat which lessens their irritating effect.

Irregular eating habits also may cause gastric juice to form at times other than when food is eaten and help to cause ulcer. Thus it would appear important in the prevention of ulcer that a proper, well-balanced diet and this, of course, means a diet containing all of the necessary food parts, vitamins and minerals, be selected, and that meals be taken at regular times.

TRUCK TELEPHONED the studio and got Mr. Hime's secretary. Her reaction to the news of his death was the same unbelief Leighman had shown. Rather dazedly she gave the information that Mr. Hime had eaten a tray lunch sent to his office by the commissary. It had consisted of a combination salad and a cup of coffee. She had eaten the same lunch herself, without ill effects.

That, thought Tuck, seems to leave either a slow-acting poison which had been ingested before the day he died, or the single remaining inescapable fact that whatever had poisoned Albert Hime had been eaten during or shortly after the little supper his wife had prepared and served. The autopsy would tell which was the case.

He telephoned the City Hall. Froody told him that the autopsy had not yet been made, nor had the report from the chemical laboratory come through. Tuck bought a dollar copy of "Ina Hart" at a cut-rate drug store and read it with considerable interest, which rose to a crescendo when he learned that its author was fully cognizant of the extremely lethal properties of sodium fluoride, which had composed the chief ingredient of the poison in the small, dusty package which Froody had found on the top shelf of the cupboard in her den. He had since discovered that a small amount of this poison, about three to four teaspoons, had been at some time taken from the contents of the box, at least if the statement on the label as to the net contents told the strict truth.

HOLLYWOOD PRODUCER DIES OF POISON

While his wife slept peacefully in another bedroom, Albert Hime, 38, died early yesterday morning. The family physician, Dr. Joseph Mahler, was called by Mrs. Hime when she went to arouse her husband at a little after seven in the morning and found him dead. Dr. Mahler ascertained that death had come as a result of poison. He at once called the police.

Mrs. Hime is Victoria Jason, film writer and novelist. She could not be interviewed because of her shocked condition, but the police report that she is at a loss as to any possible explanation of her husband's sudden demise. The police are at present working on the theory that poison was administered the dead man accidentally. The body has been removed for autopsy.

Mr. Hime's film career began as director of early musicals. Prior to coming to Hollywood in 1932, he directed and produced two musical comedies on Broadway. He was at this time the husband of Della Fagan, the cough syrup heiress. She obtained a divorce from him in Reno. His most recent production was a mystery film, "The Cold Boy." He was to have produced the film version of his wife's novel, "Ina Hart," at the time of his death. He was born in Chicago, but has been since 1932 a resident of southern California.

Later, Victoria wondered how she had been so blind. She wondered if horror closed in on all its victims as it had closed in on her, swiftly, unexpectedly, like a trap snapping shut. And not long after that she wondered if her blindness on another soul's traps are set. Where there is a trap, there are traps, there must also be the trapper.

But on the second morning after Albert's death she awoke with her blindness still upon her, and with the sound of the ringing telephone in her ears. She knew that it would probably be the first of her 50 intimate Hollywood acquaintances who, having read the morning paper, had called to offer sympathy, aid and curiosity but thinly disguised.

She was right in her guess. Standing barefoot on the cool floor of the little hall, she heard the voice of Leonard Hermes, a brilliant and erratic writer who had once fancied himself in love with her. His outstanding characteristic, in addition to what he confessed to be genius, was a very large nose. He had once told her, suddenly, that only a man with a large nose and the superabundance of intelligence which always went with a large nose would ever be capable of appreciating her strange charm.

"My sweet," he said, as always, "my sweet, this is truly dreadful. What can I do?"

"Not a thing, Leonard," she said. "There must be something. There is something. Are they persecuting you? Do you need a friend? I am your friend, Victoria. You know that."

"Yes, my friend. You are my friend. But really, there isn't anything anyone can do." The amenities disposed of, Leonard went to the point with an alacrity which, in one of lesser genius, could only have been labeled as naive. "I am, of course, consumed with curiosity. The papers—have you seen them?—are most indefinite. They mention poison, and say the police are conducting an investigation—why do the police always conduct an investigation?—but what I, of course, want to know is every little grisly detail."

"You'll have to wait for tomorrow's paper, then. I'm pretty much in the dark myself."

"Oh," said Leonard, flatly. "Anything else?" asked Victoria. "Do you want me to come over to be with you? I'm working on a ghastly thing out here, and should be charmed to let my collaborator fritz it around by himself for the day, the rat."

"That wouldn't do any good, Leonard. I would really rather be alone."

Very cheerfully he said: "Just as you say, and Victoria—I was right, wasn't I?"

"About what?"

"Albert, as I recall him, had a very small nose. Did you find him genuinely SYMPATHIQUE?"

Victoria quietly broke the connection and then removed the receiver from the hook until Hazel should arrive to take over. She became aware of the same emotion which had gripped her when the old gardener stared into Albert's room the day before—the sensation of being at bay.

Lieutenant Tuck arrived an hour later, after she had put on an unbecomingly dark blue dress. The morning was gray. Seeing him standing so huge in the doorway, Victoria was aware of him for the first time as a menacing figure. There was a passive threat in so much size pitted against the wrongdoer.

As he stepped into her house, she saw his attitude toward her had undergone a subtle change. He looked down at her in a puzzled way, as a man looks at some strange animal of which he has never seen. They went to the living room and took the same place they had occupied the day before—she on the sofa, he in the chair facing it. The script of "Ina Hart" was gone from the coffee table now; evidently Hazel had removed it.

"I'm going to ask again a question you answered not to yesterday. Was there anyone who might have had a reason to murder your husband?" Tuck asked.

"No."

"Yesterday you mentioned in passing that you had had certain visitors in the afternoon and early evening. Who were they?"

"Moira Hastings came for tea at about four. She stayed perhaps an hour and a half. Then my friend Mrs. Saxe dropped in at six; she was upset over a private problem and wanted to discuss it with me. At about seven a Captain Harries arrived unexpectedly. He stayed for perhaps three-quarters of an hour. I had to leave to pick up Albert, and when I returned Captain Harries had gone."

"Who is this Captain Harries? A friend of yours, or your husband's?"

"Neither. He was my first husband. We were divorced in 1934."

"Then he didn't know Mr. Hime at all?"

"He'd never seen him."

"And those were your only three visitors?"

"Yes."

"The Authority on Authorities"

HARD "PSYCHIC" TO READ PROBABLY THE hardest of all psychic bids for the opponents to read is that made in a three-card suit. Usually a player with a weak hand, who wants to hornswoggle his strong opponents out of getting in to their best contract, will either bid a suit in which he has four or more cards—a "semi-psychic"—or else a blank suit, singleton or doubleton. Usually, however, those can be shown up by later developments, but the three-card suit seldom finds the other fellows either so long or so short in it that they can figure out his trickiness.

Even a cursory glance will show that 6-Clubs cannot be made, as a spade and a diamond must be lost, whereas at 6-Hearts the diamond loser can be discarded on a club. East's psychic bid of 1-Heart is what steered the opponents into the wrong suit, though they were two of the nation's best known players, competing in the South-eastern championships. In the East was M. G. Murray, of St. Petersburg, playing with his favorite partner, George Brown, making a pair which landed only 2½ match points shy of winning the title.

Both North and South had a chance to show up the psychic, but did not seem to suspect it, as they may have against stars they had met in a lot of national tournaments. Vulnerability not being reported, it is probable only as North-South were vulnerable, as otherwise South probably would have doubled instead of bidding 2-No Trumps. But, after that bid, North might have sensed the psychic and bid 3-Hearts, after which South could have called 5-Hearts and North small slam in the suit. But, with each having only four cards of the suit, the psychic was not apparent.

STRANGE PROCEDURE

GEN. Douglas MacArthur seems to be a "good soldier" in a passive as well as an active sense. He doesn't like the four-power control of Japan as it was worked out at the Moscow conference, and regards the terms as "not acceptable," but will do his military duty and see it through. Obviously, however, the thing that rankles in his soul is the fact that he, who probably knew the whole Japanese problem better than anyone else, and had every reason to expect that at least his opinion would be sought in handling that important matter, was ignored in the procedure. He has stated frankly that he was not consulted during the Moscow conference, and "has no iota of responsibility for the decisions made there."

A spokesman for MacArthur has declared that the latter never received any information or communication whatever, regarding what was done and said at the Moscow conference, and didn't know that Japan was being discussed until he saw it in the press. This seems like a strange way to wind up a war, or to leave its basic facts in such shape that history can approve them.

TYPEWRITERS FOR WOMEN

THE inventor of the first practical typewriter said "I have done something for women. I have made it easier for them to earn a living." The man was a Milwaukee printer, C. Latham Sholes, and it was the year 1867. His first model was flower-decorated and fitted to a sewing machine standard. A foot treadle like that on a sewing machine operated the carriage return. The career girls who first ran these were pompadoors, leg-o-mutton sleeves, bustles and such long skirts that they had to pull them up to get their foot on the treadle.

The army of stenographers who today take letters from crotchety, Tired Business Men might not agree with all of inventor Sholes' smug satisfactions especially that part about his machine providing them with an easy way to make a living. But he certainly did make radical changes in office work and the freedom of women.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8—The men who know what makes the stock market tick—if they do not tick it themselves—tell me the soaring heights of financial grandeur it has now reached cannot be attributed to the normal considerations, or those generally advertised.

Earnings of the corporations have nothing to do with the case, they say. Nor is fear of inflation an uppermost impetus, although stocks afford a place for depreciating money to keep up with advancing prices in value.

If stocks go up as money goes down, then, theoretically at any rate, you save the loss from money depreciation due to advancing prices by buying stocks—and I say "theoretically" because it all depends on for what you ultimately sell the stocks.

The buying of stocks is due, they assert, to the fact that it is practically impossible for anyone to start a new big business today. Capital is easy enough to get, but then your troubles start.

You must acquire plant and if this requires new building, it is practically impossible. Materials are not available.

But if you get your plant built, you must have workers and today there is a shortage in all lines of employment.

If, by your superior ability, you get both plant and workers, then you can start into competition with those who already have both.

Thus, the corporation or the man already in business, has a leg-up on the post-war era, which fresh competition is finding it difficult to match. These conditions should, in all reasonable expectations, prevail nearly if not entirely through the coming year.

The key to this locked question is a subject Mr. Truman recently has been doing something about—housing.

The labor end of new business should be solved, to whatever extent it can be solved, by demobilization of the armed force manpower. But plants cannot be furnished until materials are available.

The sensational wartime square footage of manufacturing floor space cannot become productive in fresh competitive enterprise until both resources become available—including housing for workers.

A New York financial genius tells me residential housing is behind 15 years, instead of 5½ years as officially decreed. Unless a gigantic building program is undertaken, he says, the situation cannot be met, and he means the situation on rents, home and office scarcity.

But frankly, I do not understand this matter entirely. You can see new housing has been restrained for 15 years.

We have feared building because we (1920-29) overbuilt for a depression era. We tore down structures during the Roosevelt era and made parking lots because the buildings could not be rented.

The war era did not bring an increase in the population needing housing, beyond the new housing we provided in most of the large cities through housing projects. But people moved up a few notches in their housing demands—required and demanded more and better residences and offices.

The crisis in housing due to this abnormal demand still persists, and if national income continues to hold this level or go (Continued on Page Eight)

Little Yet Known Of Stomach Ulcers

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

THE cause of ulcer of the stomach and first part of the bowel or duodenum is still not known. However, it would appear that two things are necessary for the formation of such ulcer. First, there must be death of some of the tissues in the lining membrane of the stomach or bowel and, secondly, this tissue must be digested by the pepsin and hydrochloric acid in the stomach or gastric juice.

Gastric juice composed of hydrochloric acid and pepsin is formed in considerable amount soon after eating. Normally, there is only a small amount of gastric juice in the "empty" stomach and the lining membrane is protected by a layer of mucus. The amount of acid and pepsin formed when food is eaten will depend on the type of the food.

More Mucus

Together with the formation of gastric juice, more mucus is produced, which covers the lining membrane and protects it against the hydrochloric acid. The food eaten also, in a way, helps to protect the stomach against the action of the acid. For example, protein foods, such as meat, milk and eggs, combine with and neutralize the hydrochloric acid.

Fats cause a longer lasting secretion of the gastric juice but in lesser amount than do the protein foods. Fats also cause an increased secretion of mucus, and a flowing back of alkaline pancreatic juice and of bile from the intestine into the stomach. The pancreatic juice and bile exercise a neutralizing, diluting and protective action in the stomach. Starches and sugars do not have any of these properties.

Irregular Eating

Doctor Rudolf Ehrmann of New York thinks that irregular eating habits and poor nourishment may be a factor in the development of ulcer. He thinks that eating large amounts of coarse vegetables may overdistend the stomach and make the lining membrane more vulnerable to attack, as the gastric juice is not neutralized to any extent by vegetable food.

These coarse foods may also directly injure the lining membrane which appears, according to Doctor Ehrmann, to be a good reason why raw salads, as well as vegetables, are eaten with some oil dressing, or other fat which lessens their irritating effect.

Irregular eating habits also may cause gastric juice to form at times other than when food is eaten and help to cause ulcer. Thus it would appear important in the prevention of ulcer that a proper, well-balanced diet and, of course, means a diet containing all of the necessary food parts, vitamins and minerals, be selected, and that meals be taken at regular times.

Mrs. Hime is Victoria Jason, film writer and novelist. She could not be interviewed because of her shocked condition, but the police reveal that she is at a loss as to any possible explanation of her husband's sudden demise. The police are at present working on the theory that poison was administered the dead man accidentally. The body has been removed for autopsy.

Mr. Hime's film career began as director of early musicals. Prior to coming to Hollywood in 1932, he directed and produced two musical comedies on Broadway. He was at this time the husband of Della Fagan, the rough syrupy actress. She obtained a divorce from him in Reno. His most recent production was a mystery film, "The Cold Boy." He was to have produced the film version of his wife's novel, "Ina Hart," at the time of his death. He was born in Chicago, but has been since 1932 a resident of southern California.

Later, Victoria wondered how she had been so blind. She wondered if horror closed in on all its victims as it had closed in on her, swiftly and unexpectedly, like a trap snapping shut. And not long after that she wondered if her blindness on another score. Traps are set. Where there is a trap, there must also be the trigger.

But on the second morning after Albert's death she awoke with her blindness still upon her, and with the sound of the ringing telephone in her ears. She knew that it would probably be the first of her 50 intimate Hollywood acquaintances who, having read the morning paper, had called to offer sympathy, aid and curiosity but thinly disguised.

She was right in her guess. Standing barefoot on the cool floor of the little hall, she heard the voice of Leonard Hermes, a brilliant and erratic writer who had once fancied himself in love with her. His outstanding characteristic, in addition to what he confessed to be genius, was a very large nose. He had once told her, sullenly, that only a man with a large nose and the superabundance of intelligence which always went with a large nose would ever be capable of appreciating her strange charm.

"My sweet," he said, as always, "my sweet, this is truly dreadful. What can I do?"

"Not a thing, Leonard," she said. "There must be something. There is something. Are they persecuting you? Do you need a friend? I am your friend, Victoria. You know that."

"Yes, my friend. You are my friend. But really, there isn't anything anyone can do."

The amenities disposed of, Leonard went to the point with an alacrity which, in one of lesser genius, could only have been labeled as naive. "I am, of course, consumed with curiosity. The papers—have you seen them?—are most indefinite. They mention poison, and say the police are conducting an investigation—why do the police always conduct an investigation?—but what I, of course, want to know is every little grisly detail."

"You'll have to wait for tomorrow's paper, then. I'm pretty much in the dark myself."

"Oh," said Leonard, flatly. "Anything else?" asked Victoria. "Do you want me to come over to be with you? I'm working on a ghastly thing out here, and should be charmed to let my collaborator fritz it around by himself for the day, the rat."

"That wouldn't do any good, Leonard. I would really rather be alone."

Very cheerfully he said: "Just as you say, And Victoria—I was right, wasn't I?"

"About what?"

"Albert, as I recall him, had a very small nose. Did you find him genuinely SYMPATHIQUE?"

Victoria quietly broke the connection and then removed the receiver from the hook until Hazel could arrive to take over. She became aware of the same emotion which had gripped her when the old gardener stared into Albert's room the day before—the sensation of being at bay.

Lieutenant Tuck arrived an hour later, after she had put on an unbecoming dark blue dress. The morning was gray. Seeing him standing so huge in the doorway, Victoria was aware of him for the first time as a menacing figure. There was a passive threat in so much size pitted against the wrong-doer.

As he stepped into her house, she saw his attitude toward her had undergone a subtle change. He looked down at her in a puzzled way, as a man looks at some strange animal of which he has never seen. They went to the living room and took the same places they had occupied the day before—she on the sofa, he in the chair facing it. The script of "Ina Hart" was gone from the coffee table now; evidently Hazel had removed it.

"I'm going to ask again a question you answered not to yesterday. Was there anyone who might have had a reason to murder your husband?" Tuck asked.

"No."

"Yesterday you mentioned in passing that you had certain visitors in the afternoon and early evening. Who were they?"

"Molra Hastings came for tea at about four. She stayed perhaps an hour and a half. Then my friend Mrs. Saxe dropped in at six; she was upset over a private problem and wanted to discuss it with me. At about seven a Captain Harris arrived unexpectedly. He stayed for perhaps three-quarters of an hour. I had to leave to pick up Albert, and when I returned Captain Harris had gone."

"Who is this Captain Harris? A friend of yours, or your husband's?"

"Neither. He was my first husband. We were divorced in 1934."

"Then he didn't know Mr. Hime at all?"

"He'd never seen him."

"And those were your only three visitors?"

"Yes." (To Be Continued)

HARD "PSYCHE" TO READ

PROBABLY THE hardest of all psychic bids for the opponents to read is that made in a three-card suit. Usually a player with a weak hand, who wants to horseshoe his strong opponents out of getting in'o their best contract, will either bid a suit in which he has four or more cards—a "semi-psychic"—or else a blank suit, singleton or doubleton. Usually, however, those can be shown up by later developments, but the three-card suit seldom finds the other fellows either so long or so short in it that they can figure out his trickiness.

two of the nation's best known players, competing in the South-eastern championships. In the East was M. G. Murray, of St. Petersburg, playing with his favorite partner, George Brown, making a pair which landed only 2½ match points shy of winning the title.

Both North and South had a chance to show up the psychic, but did not seem to suspect it, as they may have against stars they had met in a lot of national tournaments. Vulnerability not being reported, it is probable only North-South were vulnerable, as otherwise South probably would have doubled instead of bidding 2-No Trumps. But, after that bid, North might have sensed the psychic and bid 3-Hearts, after which South could have called 5-Hearts and North small slam in the suit. But, with each having only four cards of the suit, the psychic was not apparent.

CHICAGO, Jan. 3 — Paul Derringer was out of a major league pitching job today for the first time in 15 years.

General Manager James Gallagher of the Cubs gave the big, 39-year-old right-hander his unconditional release with the announcement that it was "a move to give youngsters a chance."

A handsome giant of a man, Derringer enjoyed a colorful big league career. "Oom Paul" broke into the majors with the Cardinals in 1931, pitched for Cincinnati from 1933 through 1942 and joined the Cubs in '43. He was the only hurler in the majors last season to have participated in three World Series with three different teams.

Derringer's peak seasons were 1931 and 1939 when he led the National League in winning percentage. He won 18 and lost eight in 1931 and 25 and seven in 1939. Derringer had a 16-11 record last season.

FIVE GAMES ON FRIDAY NIGHT'S CAGE PROGRAM

Circleville Tigers Will Go To Greenfield; 4 County Loop Tilts Planned

Circleville and Pickaway county basketball teams swing back into action Friday night after a long layoff because of sickness.

The CHS Tigers are scheduled to go to Greenfield for a South Central Ohio League game and five games were scheduled in the Pickaway county league but one has been postponed.

Superintendent R. D. Shauck announced Thursday that the Jackson-Ashville game scheduled at Jackson Friday night has been postponed until Wednesday because two operettas will be presented Friday.

Other games in the county, the first almost-full program since November, are: Deer Creek at Walnut, Pickaway at Scioto; Salt Creek at Perry and Washington at Monroe.

Most of the teams have been idle during the long layoff caused by the flu epidemic which swept the county followed by Christmas holidays. Several of the teams have not played a game since November, missing all of December.

County teams will go ahead with the schedule as set up, according to present plans. Efforts to work out dates for the playing off of postponed contests probably will be made at a meeting of district superintendents Thursday evening.

Many of the teams probably will be playing two and three games a week soon in an effort to get caught up.

At Greenfield Friday night the Tigers will be facing a team that was expected to rank high in the SCO because the McClain clubs usually are good. Just how good this year's team is remains to be seen. Greenfield lost to Chillicothe by a lopsided score, as did Circleville.

The CHS Tigers will be almost starting over again. They have not played since December 7 when they lost to Chillicothe after suffering defeats at the hands of Lancaster and Logan teams.

ALL-AMERICA IN FIRST WINTER MEETING FRIDAY

CHICAGO, Jan. 3 — The projected all-America football conference, organized here September 1944, and scheduled to begin play in September 1946, opens its first annual winter meeting tomorrow.

The three-day sessions are considered all-important to the new professional grid circuit which plans to begin competition with the 26-year-old national football league next fall.

Foremost on the agenda is consideration of a 10th member city, possibly New Orleans or Dallas. The double-a may also draft college seniors during the meeting in direct competition with the N. F. L., which will hold its annual draft at its New York gathering Jan. 11.

With a head-on battle between the two circuits in the

PAUL DERRINGER OUT OF MAJORS AFTER 15 YEARS

CHICAGO, Jan. 3.—Paul Derringer was out of a major league pitching job today for the first time in 15 years.

General Manager James Gallagher of the Cubs gave the big, 39-year-old righthander his unconditional release with the announcement that it was "a move to give youngsters a chance."

A handsome giant of a man, Derringer enjoyed a colorful big league career. "Oom Paul" broke into the majors with the Cardinals in 1931, pitched for Cincinnati from 1933 through 1942 and joined the Cubs in '43. He was the only hurler in the majors last season to have participated in three World Series with three different teams.

Derringer's peak seasons were 1931 and 1939 when he led the National League in winning percentage. He won 18 and lost eight in 1931 and 25 and seven in 1939. Derringer had a 16-11 record last season.

higher, the demand for housing certainly should continue at the present rate.

In a word then, if Mr. Truman fulfills his other economic promises, he must have a gigantic housing program. But if prices become stabilized at a lower level, normal expansion of housing should ease the crisis by lessening the demand. So I cannot bring myself to accept either the 5 or 15 year stories.

In any event, the business account on this phase will be a primary factor of 1946. For the greater economic advantage of the nation, gigantic building programs should wait until an economic need develops (when national income is declining, when prices are faltering, etc.).

But the government could hold back its own building programs (spending for public works) for that eventuality, and contrive an orderly, long-term stimulation program for private building, definitely restricted so as not to accentuate the current inflation, caused by shortage of materials. Upon this problem, Mr. Truman has only begun.

Five Pickaway County Servicemen Have Reunion On Okinawa

FAMILIAR FACES SEEN FAR FROM OLD HOMETOWN

Pacific Island Is Meeting Place For Men From Circleville Area

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Lt. Leo D. Morgan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emmitt Morgan, 125 East Mill street, tells of the reunion of five Pickaway county servicemen on Okinawa recently in the following article).

BY LT. LEO D. MORGAN
An old face means a lot when a person is so far away from home, and old faces were dominating the small island of Okinawa on Sunday, December 16.

Five servicemen from Circleville and vicinity met that day to have a reunion, to talk of old times and to give each other the latest news they had of the hometown. The five men were the following: Lt. Leo D. Morgan of the Machine Gun Company of the 116th Fleet Hospital; David Betz, pharmacist mate of the 116th Fleet Hospital; Cpl. Robert Goeller of the 3436th Ord. Co.; Conway Stonerock of the 632nd Quartermaster Co.; and Frank Beck, also of a Quartermaster unit, the 99th Q. M. Bn.

These men are stationed on different parts of the island and a lot of driving was done before they were all together. The meeting place of the five was at Naha where Frank Beck's unit is located. Their only regret was that several others who are also on Okinawa could not join them.

The meeting of these men was quite by accident, although a couple of the men had seen each other before. A story of the meeting follows:

Earlier in the week, I was looking for several Japanese prisoners who were in a truck accident and were then taken to a hospital. I didn't know to which hospital they had been taken. The first hospital that I went to happened to be the unit to which Betz is assigned.

I walked into the officer of the day quarters and asked about these Jap patients and who did I see but Betz sitting there at the desk on duty.

After we had a nice talk I said to Dave, I will be back Sunday, so in the meantime, you look up some addresses and we will look up some of the fellows.

Sunday came and all the only address we had was Goeller's; so we looked him up and he happened to know where Stonerock and Beck were stationed.

A lot has been heard of two or three persons meeting, but when five from such a small town as Circleville meet 9,000 miles from home, somewhat of a record has been set.

The meeting of these men came to an end that, "This world is a small one."

STAMBAUGH OUT AS MANAGER OF WASHINGTON C. H.

Walter L. Stambaugh, former Circleville grocer, has resigned his position as city manager of Washington C. H. He had served two years and stated that he was resigning because a member of council had asked him to.

Stambaugh had everything in the city government working smoothly and his resignation came as a great surprise. When Stambaugh became city manager, there was $3,900 in the treasury and $5,300 in outstanding bills. During his two years, all bills were paid and a balance of $10,000 accumulated in the treasury.
